Talks Resume In Bell Strike; 150,000 Idled

Walkout Having Little Effect On Nation's Telephone Service

NEW YORK (UP) — Negotiations in the 43-state strike of telephone installers which has idled 150,000 operators resumed today.

Federal Mediator Walter Maggiolo opened a joint session with representatives of the striking Communications Workers of America and the Western Electric Co.

Maggiolo said he was trying to "get the feel of the situation." He said he hoped for resumption of direct negotiations between union and management.

Generally, the strike was having little effect on telephone service across the nation. Local calls were virtually unaffected since 85 per cent of such service is controlled through automatic dial equipment.

Long-distance Delays

Thousands of telephone operators refused to cross picket lines set up by striking installers, resulting in widespread delays in long-distance service. But officials of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said switchboards in the 14 long - distance division buildings throughout the country were being manned at from 63 to 100 per cent of normal by supervisory personnel and operators who crossed picket lines.

Directly affected by the walkout are 23,800 members of the CWA who install telephone equipment in Bell System exchange offices in 43 states. They went on strike when protracted negotiations over a new contract broke down early Monday. The only states unaffected by the walkout are Maine, Vermont, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Montana.

The installers are seeking a one-year contract with an hourly pay increase of 15 cents, plus 5 cents in travel pay and various fringe benefits. Their wages range from $1.39 to $2.80 an hour.

Western Electric has offered a two-year pact with pay increases ranging from 6 to 12 cents an hour, plus improved fringe benefits.

Chamber Drive For Members Off To Fast Start

The Monessen Chamber of Commerce membership campaign got off to a fast start yesterday.

General chairman Harold B. Cramer said that 12 new members were enrolled on the opening day of the drive.

The Chamber hopes to secure 40 new members by Sept. 25 to boost its membership to an all-time high of 500.

The campaign officially opened yesterday with a kickoff luncheon at Johnson's Restaurant. Present were 32 "campaigners" who have been divided into two teams, captained by Paul T. Nicoden and A. E. Wilen.

Each worker was issued a campaign kit, telling the story of the Chamber and including a copy of the Chamber's program for the balance of the year.

The kits also included prospect assignments.

Charles W. Hagerstrand, president of the Chamber, spoke briefly to the "campaigners" of the Chamber's role in "our ever-progressive community."

Polio Victim Elopes; Back at Home Today

TONAWANDA, N.Y. (UP)—The mother of a husky, 23-year-old furnace repairman who reportedly eloped with a 16-year-old polio victim admitted today the couple was "at our home but we haven't discussed yet whether they got married or not."

Mrs. Eugene Lilac Sr. refused to call either her son, Eugene, or his bride, Marion Halstead Lilac, to the phone as "they're resting and I won't disturb them."

"Since both the girl's parents and my husband and I know where the children are and they are safe, we have nothing to say," Mrs. Lilac said.

"They're with us now . . . for how long I don't know . . . I don't know any details about anything . . . and I don't want any newspaper publicity."

Mrs. Lilac indicated the couple arrived here during the night.

The child bride's parents revealed in Chicago that they had received a phone call from Marion to inform them of her marriage.

She and the 210-pound furnace repairman disappeared Sunday when he took her in her wheelchair to a movie. They phoned to say they would be "late" getting home.

News of the marriage dispelled fears Marion may have met with foul play.

The Halsteads said they had no objections to Lilac but that the couple had agreed to wait until Marion celebrated her 17th birthday before marrying.

Four Youngsters Gang Up on Two Teen-aged Girls

Four youngsters, ranging from six to ten years in age, ganged up on two teen-aged girls on a downtown street last night, knocked them to to the ground, snatched their purses and then fled through an alley. They were apprehended by police later.

According to Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka, Lamese Essey, 15, of 1217 Summit Ave., and Carol Kachmarik, 16, of 1312 Summit Ave., were walking near Seventh St. and Donner Ave. about 10:30 last night when the youngsters, three girls and a boy, attacked them.

The teenagers told police they were enroute home when the youngsters bowled them over. The girls had a total of $4 in their purses. About $3.20 was recovered.

Police found the youngsters and took them to the police station. They were released into the custody of their parents after being charged with larceny of person.

Juvenile authorities will conduct an investigation, Kuvinka stated.

Misses Essey and Kachmarik reported no injuries to police.

"Experimental operations" are scheduled to begin tomorrow at the new $225,000 wire patenting plant at the Monessen Page Division, American Chain & Cable Co., Inc.

The new plant is 600 feet long, 78 feet wide and has 46,800 square feet of floor space.

The additional equipment, according to Harvey W. Seymour, Page general manager, will eventually increase the output capacity of drawn steel by some 400 tons a month.

Kasper Told to Keep Hands Off Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — Segregationist John Kasper and nine confederates were under preliminary federal injunction today to keep hands off Nashville's first grade integration program.

Federal Judge William E. Miller issued the order Monday, naming 10 of the 12 persons he had placed under temporary restraint last week following the three days of trouble that included dynamiting of an integrated school.

The federal court action gave Nashville school officials added hope for a peaceful school day and fuller attendance at the schools where first grades are integrated. Pupils go back to classes today after taking Monday off to attend the state fair.

Arkansas Mothers Act

As hope grew for a return to normal in Nashville, a mothers' league in troubled Little Rock, Ark., announced through an attorney it plans a legal action that could settle the differences between Gov. Orval Faubus and the federal government.

The lawyer, Griffin Smith Jr., said the action is an appeal from the U.S. District Court order that Central High School in Little Rock be immediately desegregated. Faubus ordered out the state militia Sept. 2 to halt integration at the school, ostensibly to prevent bloodshed and violence.

The appeal opened new legal questions and apparently offered these possibilities:

—The action could override the summons calling for Faubus' appearance before District Judge Ronald Davies Friday to show cause why he should not be en-

Hurricane Esther Picks Up Speed; Carrie Blows Out

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—Tropical storm Esther picked up force today, close on the whirling heels of hurricane Carrie, which swept toward the North Atlantic after lightly brushing Bermuda.

The new Gulf disturbance took on storm status Monday and was dubbed Esther—fifth on the official list of weather bad girls for this season.

Esther was last reported about 400 miles south of the Louisiana coast, with winds up to 45 miles an hour near the center.

Advisories on the two storms indicated Carrie appears finally about to dissipate at sea, while Esther shows signs of intensifying and posing a new threat to the Gulf Coast.

Carrie did little more than sway the palm trees of Bermuda Monday. Winds on the island went no higher than 35 miles an hour.

Esther was first spotted Monday in the Gulf, cradle of killer hurricanes, as a tropical depression. It has since moved 100 miles northward and grown into a more sharply defined storm area.

Two Accidents Here Yesterday

Two motor accidents were reported by Monessen police today.

Benjamin Peeler told police that his car was parked in front of his home at 1036 Morgan Ave. when it was struck by a car driven by Arthur Benson, Homestead, about 2:20 this morning. Damage was slight.

A parked car owned by Ray Smith, of 1540 Leeds Ave., Monessen, was damaged when struck by a car traveling between Sixth and Ninth Streets on Knox Ave. yesterday afternoon. The driver was identified as Daniel Matiansky, of 138 East Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen. Minor damage resulted.

'Space Man' Predicts Observation Platforms

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Air Force "space man" Major David Simons has predicted the creation of "platforms" at the fringe of outer space on which teams of scientists woud study cosmic radiation and the solar system.

Simons explained Monday night that the platforms would be fixed at an altitude at which scientists could remain indefinitely for their studies.

He said the altitude to which he rose in a balloon a few weeks ago, about 20 miles, was ideal for this type of observation.

He said he had encountered only a few minor problems at this height—most of them because he didn't descend when he was supposed to.

"The system was designed for about 24 hours and I stayed up there about 30 hours. My water supply ran low, the battery power for some of my equipment was fading, and the weather became threatening," he said.

The major said it would be possible to build a much bigger capsule than the one he rode in. However, despite the close quarters, he said he experienced no physical difficulty and even managed to catch several "catnaps."

The major said he felt he was on the "edge of heaven looking at mortal man below" as he neared the end of his ascent.

"I saw sights like I've never seen before. The clouds looked like cotton balls and the earth was a combination of faded colors looking like something that had been washed too much."

Simons, who reached a record height for a manned balloon, said multiple man flights to at least 20 miles would eventually become routine in man's search for the answers to space travel.

Army Seizes Thailand Control in Quiet Coup

Pro-Western Rule of Premier Songgram Is Ended; No Resistance

BANGKOK (UP) — The Thailand army seized power early today in a bloodless coup that overthrew the pro-Western government of Premier Sibul Songgram. The country was placed under martial law.

Pibul, himself an army field marshal, was missing and there was no reply to repeated broadcasts from Radio Bangkok: "Please report as soon as possible. Please report as soon as possible."

The revolt against Pibul, a staunch friend of the United States, was led by one of his long-time supporters, Field Marshal Sarit Thanarat.

Sarit has been a power behind the throne for years. He has never publicly declared his position in the East-West struggle. However, he is considered pro-Western.

Premier Flees

Pibul apparently had advance word of the coup and fled before the army's tanks and soldiers began rolling out of army headquarters Monday night to seize the strategic strongpoints in this storied city.

The coup was one of the quietest in Thailand's turbulent history, partially because it occurred on a Buddhist holiday when government offices and schools were closed.

When the 48-year-old Sarit made his move there was no resistance. Police headquarters were taken over smoothly and swiftly. It took less than five minutes to accomplish the job although the 50,000 man police force is rated on a par with the army.

Within an hour bridges, communications offices and transportation headquarters were under Sarit's strict control. Several of Songgram's aides were reported under arrest, including his personal secretary, Gen. Poon Chatigavanij.

Industrial Output Is On Rise

WASHINGTON (UP) — Government economists said today that higher retail sales is a sign industry is snapping out of its summer doldrums.

Retail sales spurted 5 per cent above April levels last month and 7 per cent above August, 1956, the Federal Reserve reported.

The Agriculture Department, at the same time, said net farm income was running at an annual rate of $12,600,000,000 — up 500 million dollars over last year.

Only part of the retail sales gains were attributed to higher prices. The economists said some of the increase reflected a larger volume of goods being sold. They added that many firms have whittled down inventories so that production is closely geared to sales.

Another bright spot in the picture is private housing. During August it went up and edged above the annual rate of one million units of new construction.

One responsible government economist told the United Press there is little reason to believe that the failure of industrial production to turn up during the summer means that the economy is no longer growing.

Industrial Output

The latest Federal Reserve report spots total industrial output at 144 per cent of the 1947-49 average. The same volume of industrial activity prevailed in June and July.

If retail buying continues to show the moderate growth it has displayed in the last few months, the economists said, industrial output is likely to climb back to the all-time high of last December.

Industries that have been significantly affected by the inventory readjustment include lumber and steel.

If the upturn in new housing continues, lumber output is bound to recoup some of the losses of the past 12 months. Similarly the auto industry has been drawing down its steel stocks, which partly accounts for the fact that the steel mills have been running at between 80 and 85 per cent of capacity.

Once production of 1958 models swings into high gear, economists expect car makers to be buying more steel. How much more depends on the public's response to the new models.

Adenauer Plans Cabinet Changes

BONN, Germany (UP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer studied possible cabinet changes today following his landslide victory in Sunday's parliamentary elections.

Observers believed Franz Bluecher would be replaced as vice chancellor either by 70-year-old Finance Minister Fritz Schaeffer or Defense Minister Franz-Josef Strauss.

Reliable sources said the southern branch of the Christian Democratic Party which won 55 parliamentary seats was likely to demand the post as a reward.

Other cabinet posts up for possible reallocation were the ministries of food, labor, transport, housing, refugees and family affairs.

Redstone to Form Police Force

Redstone Twp. school district has received permission from Fayette County Court to organize its own police force.

President Judge W. Russell Carr yesterday approved a Redstone petition that a 23-man special school police be organized immediately.

In its petition, the school district stated that the police will be used primarily to preserve order at athletic contests.

Redstone officials pointed out that lack of adequate police protection in the past has resulted in damage to the school's property.

Disorderly Conduct

William Stesko, 25, of 404 Ninth St., Monessen, was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge for creating a disturbance in the 700 block of Rostraver St. about 1:30 this morning, police reported.

Jap Appeal to End Atom Tests Rejected

TOKYO (UP) — A Japanese appeal for the suspension of scheduled American nuclear weapons tests in the Pacific today, drew an immediate rejection from the United States.

U. S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II delivered the U. S. reply to Japanese Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi at the Foreign Office today.

Kishi had relayed through MacArthur a note expressing regret at the U. S. decision to hold nuclear tests at the Eniwetok proving ground next spring and "hoping the U. S. will see its way clear to suspend these tests."

Democrats in Fund Dinner to Promote Judges

A $25-plate dinner to help raise over $10,000 to promote the political campaigns of three Democratic judge candidates in Westmoreland County will be held tonight at the Baldoc Hills Country Club near Irwin.

A capacity crowd of 500 is expected at the affair being sponsored by the Independent Citizens Committee of Westmoreland County, which was organized last month to enlist "non-professionals" interested in county politics.

Tonight's banquet is part of the organization's plans to promote the Nov. 5 general election campaigns of Judges Edward G. Bauer and David H. Weiss and District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco, judge nominee.

Mayor David L. Lawrence, of Pittsburgh, will be principal speaker and Judge Samuel Weiss, Allegheny County, toastmaster.

Gov. George H. Leader was to attend but informed the committee yesterday that he is unable to do so.

Mayor Hugo J. Parente will lead a large delegation of Monessen Democrats at tonight's affair.

Three Monessen men, Bernard Shire, Irwin Sanes and Hymen Alberts, are members of the banquet committee, as is Joseph Vizza, of Belle Vernon.

Carroll Authority Discusses Water Refunds to 360

The Carroll Twp. General Authority met last night to discuss water refunds to 360 consumers in the township.

The Authority, set up six years ago to secure a water system, agreed to make $25 refunds to each of the original consumers as soon as funds are available.

Water to the township is now being supplied by the Monongahela Water Co., which moved into the area through an agreement with the Authority.

An Authority spokesman said that about $8,000 has already been raised for the refunds. He said the remaining money will be secured through a water hydrant rental now being assessed by the township supervisors.

The $25 refund was promised to township customers who paid a $145 fee when the water project was first proposed six years ago, according to the Authority spokesman.

Members of the Authority are Rudy Polaski, President Arthur Cline, Clyde Haywood, Andrew McDonald and Ernest Gysegem.

Charleroi Man Pilots Plane in Truck Collision

An Air Force plane piloted by a Charleroi man collided with a truck during a landing yesterday at West Palm Beach, Fla., killing the truck driver.

The victim was identified as Airman 2-C Leo Patrick Quap Jr., 22, of Philadelphia.

The aircraft — a twin-engine C45 transport — was piloted by Capt. Francis J. Cosner Jr., of Charleroi. He and two other crew members escaped injury.

According to an Army spokesman, the plane clipped the truck while coming in for a landing. The truck was speeding to meet the plane, but shot out on the runway in front of it, base authorities said.

The plane's left landing gear was smashed in the collision, but the transport landed safely.

Also on the plane were Capt. Donald F. Coyner of Winchester, Ind., and 1st Lt. Wesley G. Blaine of Duarte, Calif.

School Board to Meet Tonight

A meeting of the Monessen School Board will be held tonight beginning at 8 o'clock in the superintendent's office in the high school.

The meeting was postponed from last Tuesday, the regular monthly meeting date.

Moon Attorneys Seek Reduction Of Death Sentence

HARRISBURG (UP)—Attorneys for Norman W. Moon, convicted of the courtroom slaying of Warren County Judge Allison D. Wade will ask the state Pardons Board today to reduce Moon's death sentence to life imprisonment.

Moon, a Connellsville electrician, shot and killed Wade on Jan. 13, 1954, as he stood before Wade awaiting the jurist's sentence in a non-support case on which Moon had been brought into court.

He is slated to die in the electric chair at Rockview Penitentiary Sept. 30.

Moon fled the courtroom following Wade's slaying but was captured less than an hour later after he had shot himself in the neck. The wound was not serious.

The case is unusual in that a sanity commission appointed by the court found that Moon was "mentally ill" but the court refused to accept the recommendation. His appeal to the state Supreme Court for a new trial was rejected last May.

Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno dissented from the majority opinion of the high court. Musmanno said in his dissent:

"I would think that the very act of shooting a judge would suggest insanity. I still believe that, in accordance with the (sanity) commission's recommendations, the defendant should be committed to a mental hospital until such time as he will have regained his sanity."

Two Homicide Cases Listed In Washington

Two homicide cases will go to trial in Washington County Court the week of November 12, according to the court calendar.

Three Canonsburg area youths are defendants in one of the cases. They are charged with the slaying of Austin Wallace, an aged McDonald man.

Wallace was found beaten in his home on May 13, but he did not die until about two months later in Washington hospital.

Listed as defendants are James G. Alford, 19, Houston; George Pollard, 18, Canonsburg, and Ronald Burgess, 20, Canonsburg R.D. 1.

The other homicide involves Orville Kittle, California, who allegedly killed his nephew George Wayne Lasko on Aug. 10.

The death weapon was a police officer's weapon reportedly snatched from the officer just prior to the fatal shooting.

Steal Cash Register At Donora Elks Club

Burglars broke into the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of Donora sometime yesterday morning and hauled away an electric cash register valued at $1,700, Donora police reported today.

Entrance was gained by breaking a panel in a rear door.

Club officials said there was a small amount of change in the register.

The club is located at 627 Meldon Ave.

Selected as Juror

John D. Foster, Rostraver Twp., is one of 24 persons who have been selected for grand jury duty beginning Oct. 7 in Westmoreland County Court of Quarter Sessions.

More Rain Is Needed Despite Fall Yesterday

It really rained in the district yesterday!

At U. S. Lock No. 4, Monessen, a rainfall of .64 of an inch was reported from 7 a.m. yesterday to 7 a.m. this morning.

That was the highest reading of the drought-ridden summer.

As a result of the heavy rains, the Monongahela River was reported rising slowly. For weeks, the river level at the Monessen dock was 14.3 at the upper gauge and 10.3 at the lower gauge.

However today, the Monongahela had climbed to readings of 14.8 and 10.8.

Yesterday's showers brought the total rainfall so far this month to almost an inch. That's still below the monthly September average of about three-and-one-half inches.

Agriculture officials reported that the recent rains have moistened the soil on district farms to only about a depth of two inches.

Additional rain is needed to undo the soil damage caused by the summer-long drought, it was stated.

Mostly fair weather and cooler temperatures were predicted for the district tonight.

The mercury will dip into the 60's tonight, then rise to the mid 70's tomorrow.

Bethlehem Has Big Plans for Steel Expansion

NEW YORK (UP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. said Monday it would spend 358 million dollars for increased steel capacity in the mid-continent area of the U. S. if it is allowed to merge with Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co.

The consolidation is being fought in the courts by the Justice Department, which contends it would tend to create a monopoly in the steel industry. The merger would be the biggest in corporate history.

The disclosure of the proposed expansion, which Bethlehem said would add 2,588,000 tons of steel capacity to the area, was made by Bethlehem president Arthur B. Homer, in affidavits filed in Federal Court.

In plans spelled out by Homer, $268 million would be spent to increase capacity at Youngstown Sheet's Chicago plant by 1,986,000 tons. Some $90 million would be spent raising the Youngstown, Ohio, plant's capacity by 602,000 tons.

Plans Expansion

Homer said that "Bethlehem is seeking the merger because it desires to serve a vast consuming area in the mid-continent that it cannot economically reach from its present plants."

"In order to reach and serve the market," he said, "Bethlehem has elected to merge with Youngstown and then to expand the latter's existing plants, rather than itself build a new integrated steel plant in the mid-continent area.

"The latter course would involve prohibitive cost per ton of new capacity and vastly greater capital resources than are available to Bethlehem and would delay almost indefinitely the provision of certain important new facilities.

"The merger on the other hand is immediately feasible and would promptly bring a new competitive force into the steel industry into the mid-continent area."

The filing constitutes one of the major chapters in the historic case which probably will form the basis for a body of laws on mergers—a field in which industry is vitally interested.

Picket Lines Thrown Up at Hershey Estates

HERSHEY, Pa. (UP)—Picket lines were thrown up early today around various enterprises of the Hershey Estates following collapse of last-minute negotiations between union and management over a new contract.

The vote Monday night was 171-159 for the walkout of more than 500 workers. Picket lines were set up around the estate's Hotel Hershey and the Community Inn.

The strike does not affect the big Hershey Chocolate Corp. plant nor the Milton Hershey School since they are not part of the Hershey Estates. The walkout is expected, however, to spread to about 31 divisions of the estates, including the department store, the theater, the golf course and the Hershey Lumber Products.

Company negotiators, headed by Theodore R. Banks, vice president, met with officials of Local 464, Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union (AFL-CIO), for more than eight hours Monday without progress on key points.

Union attorney Bernard Katz said the union held to its demand for a 21-cent-an-hour increase for all employes, "but as soon as management becomes reasonable, we will become a little more fluid."

The union said the company offered boosts up to eight cents an hour to some employes only.

Katz told the union members to apply for unemployment compensation on the basis of a "company lockout," a charge that Banks termed "ridiculous."

Small Rocket Launched; Big Missile Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) —A small, speedy rocket roared off its launching ramp here Monday but the firing of a second and larger missile apparently fizzled when leaking fuel burst into flames before it could take off.

Witnesses near this top secret base said the flames were quickly doused in a thick cloud of vapor. When the smoke cleared, the big rocket, believed to be the Air Force's Thor, was still standing and leaking fuel. It appeared to have suffered little or no damage from the flames.

Observers said they noted the gleaming white projectile was apparently leaking fuel when the red and white tower was rolled away at about 1 p.m. in preparation for the launching. The fuel continued to pour from a point about midway up the missile for nearly two hours.

It was then the flames and smoke began to belch from the base of the missile.

Officials at the base and in Washington refused to comment on the fire or identify either of the missiles.

The other projectile thundered off its launching pad about 2 p.m.

Ice Chunks Are Fused Hailstones

READING, Pa. (UP) —Mysterious ice chunks which fell recently in five Eastern Pennsylvania localities have been described as fused hailstones.

Dr. Malcolm J Reider, head of the M. J. Reider associates laboratory which tested samples of the ice, offered the explanation. He said the ice contained atmospheric debris which indicated it formed from frozen water drops during a storm which stirred up dust from the earth.

Reider said at least three of them were carried great distances by a jet stream until they became too heavy and dropped to earth.

The ice cakes, some of which weighed 100 pounds, dropped on Bernville, Camp Hill, Harrisburg, Chester and Philadelphia.

Beck to Face Trial Jan. 6

TACOMA, Wash. (UP)—Teamsters' President Dave Beck will go on trial in U.S. District Court here Jan. 6, 1958 on charges of evading nearly a quarter of a million dollars in income taxes.

Federal Judge George H. Boldt, who set the date Monday, was scheduled to hear both cases against Beck involving nine counts of alleged income tax evasion totaling $240,000 for the years 1950-53.

Latrobe Area Man Guilty in County Court

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP —Robert Fleming, 22, Latrobe RD 2, pleaded guilty to a malicious mischief charge today and was ordered to make restitution for damage to a woman's home.

Judge David H. Weiss suspended a jail sentence of six months and gave Fleming that much time in which to pay for damage to the home of Sarah A. Quinn, of Lloydsville.

The woman testified her home was stoned last Aug. 24. She estimated damage to aluminum siding and her porch at $50.

Three youths arrested for taking part in the incident are in custody of Juvenile Court.

Constable Thomas Marshall told Judge Weiss the juvenile delinquency situation in Lloydsville was "bad." He said juveniles have been seen coming out of a tavern in the hamlet with bottles.

GET READY FOR U. S.-CANADA VISIT — Queen Elizabeth II of Great Britain and her husband, Prince Philip, are shown at a recent meeting in London of the 50-nation conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union. In the meantime, it was announced that the royal couple will use an American DC-7C for their visit to Canada and the United States next month.

UN Assembly Opens 12th Session Today

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —The United Nations General Assembly opens its 12th annual session today determined to make its most vigorous effort yet to initiate worldwide disarmament.

With some of its 81-member nations on the threshold of "push-button warfare" capability, the pressing problem of preventing a nuclear global catastrophe overshadowed such other problems as Algeria, Cyprus, Arab refugees from Palestine and the unification of Germany and Korea.

Forty foreign ministers assembled for the session in an atmosphere that was far cooler than last year's opening when the Suez crisis and the Hungarian revolution had started to generate steam.

This year, the Suez crisis was by the boards. The Hungarian situation still was simmering.

Only last Saturday the assembly's 11th session, as its final act, voted a new condemnation of Russia's suppression of the Hungarian revolution.

The delegates directed outgoing assembly President Prince Wan Waithayakon of Thailand to try to persuade Moscow and its puppet government in Budapest to get Red army troops out of Hungary. He will report to the 12th session.

The assembly's first scheduled business is the election of a successor to Prince Wan as General Assembly president. In past years there has been little or no contest but this year New Zealand's Sir Leslie Munro and Lebanon's Dr. Charles Malik both made a pitch for the post. Munro was favored to win it.

The assembly also was scheduled today to add newly-independent Malaya as the 82nd member.

Turnpike Work Schedule Change Is Announced

HARRISBURG (UP)—A new work schedule adopted by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission will reduce working hours of over 1,000 toll road maintenance and collection employes.

A resolution adopted by the commission Monday directed that all employes work a 40-hour week, eliminating schedules which placed some workers on duty for 42-hours or staggered work so that some employes had heavy schedules at some times and light at others.

Vice chairman Merritt A Williamson said the new schedules will be arranged to use the present manpower to the fullest extent to reduce the need for additional personnel.

The commissioners also authorized appointment of five additional state troopers to the Northeastern Extension when a final 15½ mile link to Scranton is opened Nov. 1.

Price Spiral Pushes Family Budget Out of Line; Controls Possible

NEW YORK (UP) — The price spiral which has taken place during the postwar period has added around $2^ a week in costs to the average family's budget.

Inflation has increased the cost of almost everything that Americans buy. It now takes $1 to buy what 50 cents would have bought in 1939 or what 80 cents would have bought in 1949.

Consumer expenditures give a good idea of the damage wrought by inflation. Between 1947 and 1956, consumer spending for goods and services jumped 102 billion dollars to 267 billion dollars. However, economists estimate that 45 billion dollars of the increase reflected higher prices.

Income Also Up

This means that only 57 billion dollars went for additional goods and services. The rest was needed just to stay even.

Economists point out that the 45 billion dollars absorbed by higher costs means that postwar inflation placed a tax of almost $300 on every man, woman and child in the country.

Many Americans have been able to improve the living standards despite this inflationary spiral, principally because their incomes have increased at an even faster pace.

However, Dr. Marcus Nadler, consulting economist to the Hanover Bank of New York, said a growing segment of the population has found that our unprecedented prosperity is only "a mirage."

He said this applies not only to those living on Social Security benefits, pension funds and other fixed assets, but also to those wage and salaried individuals whose incomes have not kept pace with the climbing cost of living.

The biggest item in the average family budget is food including tobacco and alcoholic beverages, accounting for about 32.5 cents out of every dollar spent. Americans spent $86,400,000,000 for these commodities in 1956, an increase of 48.8 per cent over 1947.

Controls May Result

Next on the list is housing and operation of the household, taking around 26 cents of each dollar. This expenditure rose 75 per cent to $68,900,000,000.

Third biggest item is transportation, including the purchases of new and used cars, accounted for 11.4 cents of each dollar spent. The total last year was $30,300,000,000, up 97 per cent over 1947.

These three budget items alone accounted for about 70 cents of the average family's cost-of-living dollar.

The rest is spent for clothing, medical care; personal business, recreation (now a 14 billion dollar business), personal care, private education and research, religious and welfare and foreign travel.

Some economists believe that unless restraint is shown, the government may be forced to slap wage, price and profit controls on the economy. The President has been reluctant to take such a drastic step, but economists say that unless inflation is halted, he may have no alternative.

Other Segregation News

Among other developments in the South's racial problem were the following:

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Arlington County school officials planned to seek a stay, today or Wednesday, of a federal court order that would permit seven Negroes to attend all-white schools Monday. The school board plans to appeal the order, compliance with which would mean the first failure in Virginia's elaborate machinery set up to circumvent the Supreme Court's integration rulings.

MIAMI — Florida Atty. Gen. Richard Ervin said he believes some southern states have misinterpreted the Supreme Court's rulings on school integration—that the court "has by no means indicated that it is ready to 'jump off the deep end' by requiring immediate integration."

B-I-E Day Here on Oct. 17

Twenty-two Monessen firms have agreed to cooperate in the annual "Business, Industry and Education Day" on Oct. 17, it was announced today.

The promotion is sponsored jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and Monessen Education Association.

All teachers and administrators in both the public and parochial school systems will be released on BIE Day to visit the firm of their choosing.

Henry Furio, Monessen High School principal, who is chairman of the Chamber's Education Committee, will be in charge of arrangements.

Furio has already announced that T. W. Kwok, a former Chinese diplomat, will be the main speaker at the morning session of BIE Day in the high school auditorium. Kwok is presently associated with a Pittsburgh brokerage firm.

All Firms Invited

The purpose of BIE Day is to better acquaint teachers with the city's business life.

Furio said that the teachers will be permitted to select their hosts for the BIE Day visits.

All Monessen firms are invited to take part in the event, according to George Cieply, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Interested firms should contact Cieply at the Chamber office.

The 22 city businesses which have already promised to cooperate in BIE Day include:

Check's Furniture Store, Stern's Furniture Store, Pittsburgh Steel Co., A. & P., Monessen office of the Mellon Bank, Page Division of the American Chain and Cable Co., Inc., Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, Manos Theatre, Peoples Natural Gas. Co., and, Bell Telephone Co., Authority of the Boro of Charleroi, West Penn Power Co., Charleroi Supply Co., Fisher Brothers, Eisenberg's Department Store, Douglas School of Business, First Federal Savings and Loan Assn., Federal Credit Union (Pittsburgh Steel), G. C. Murphy Co., The Daily Independent, Monessen Laundry and Magura Clothing Co.

A PHOTO LIGHTED BY LOVE — "I guess I have the love light in my eyes," says Marilyn Monroe of this picture. Her husband, playwright Arthur Miller, is the recipient of the loving look in the photo which was made in New York. Both admit they have changed in their more than a year of marriage. The film star has become a doting wife, having adopted her husband's city, faith and family. Miller says he has "learned a lot about living from her."

Medical Society Tries To Heal Rift Between Physicians and UMW

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A Pennsylvania Medical Society committee was reported ready today to recommend a rapprochement between the physicians' group and the United Mine Workers Health and Welfare Fund.

The committee, according to reports, will tell the 107th annual meeting of the society's House of Delegates that the action declaring "null and void" the society's agreement with the UMW fund was a mistake.

In a meeting of the House of Delegates at Atlantic City last October the abrogation of the UMW arrangement came at a tumultuous session. Introduction of a resolution rescinding the action could bring another heated floor battle.

The resolution was reported to declare the medical society "takes cognizance of the progress with the United Mine Workers and regrets the action of the House of Delegates last October in Atlantic City."

Among those backing the "peace" move was Dr. Elmer Hess, Erie, Pa., past president of the American Medical Assn.

Hess, nationally noted urologist, was said to have declared that the "one who pays the bills has always had the right to decide what hospital and what doctor will provide the medical care."

The medical society voided its agreement with the UMW fund on grounds the fund was endeavoring to dictate terms for the treatment of beneficiaries of the fund.

In Monday's convention action, a report from the "fifth councilor district," consisting of Lebanon, Perry, York, Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Perry and Lancaster counties, blamed various agencies for pressuring counties into giving free polio shots.

"Although several counties were opposed to mass free inoculations . . .practically all counties had been forced into the establishment of free clinics by pressure from the National Foundation for Poliomyelitis, Parent-Teachers Associations, the Catholic Church and local school health nurses. . ."

In another report, the society's Commission on Conservation of Vision said it has found that treatment frequently is refused by blind persons for fear they may lose their pensions from the state.

The commission said it "does not believe that a blind pension should be given to anyone whose vision can be restored."

The group also called for legislation to bar from the highways those persons "who are dangerous drivers because of their vision" and for determination of standards for acceptance or rejection of persons with "doubtful vision" when they apply for driver's licenses.

Electronic Range on Display at Store Here

An electronic range which cooks food in minutes without external heat will be displayed Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Dependable Furnace Co. 57 E. Donner Ave., Monessen.

The range, known as Westinghouse Speed-O-Lite, will be demonstrated by Kay Glenn and Mary Stevenson, Westinghouse and West Penn home economists.

Rudy Benedetti, manager of Dependable Furnace, said the electronic range will cook a five-pound beef roast in only 30 minutes, 20 chocolate cookies in two minutes or a poached egg in 45 seconds.

"A pre-cooked frozen packaged dinner can be on a serving plate only four minutes after it's removed from the freezer," he said.

The Westinghouse electronic range cooks by means of microwaves, which are a kind of high-frequency radio energy. A characteristic of these waves is that they will convert to heat after striking a substance which will absorb them.

Thus the only heat produced is in the food. The air inside the range, the range itself and the utensils remain at room temperature, except for such small amounts of heat as they may pick up from the food. This permits food to be served in the same dishes they're cooked in.

The microwave principle of cooking is revolutionary in that the foods are cooked from the inside out. The wave penetrates the food on all sides to a depth of about 2½ inches creating an instantaneous heat which then cooks the food from the center toward the outside.

It is claimed that the rapid cooking improves the flavor of foods since it doesn't allow time for the natural flavor and moisture to escape.

The electronic range is completely safe and easy to operate, Benedetti maintained.

The home economists will prepare sample meals during the three-day exhibit in Monessen. They will prepare breakfasts in seconds and dinners in a few minutes, according to Benedetti.

Defense Dept. Celebrates Its 10th Anniversary

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Defense Department celebrates its 10th anniversary today. But the man who fought hard to bring about unification of the armed forces, Gen. George C. Marshall, wasn't able to attend the birthday party.

Friends said the 76-year-old retired five star general, although not ill, just didn't feel up to going to the party being thrown by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson for military and civilian leaders who have guided unification since a single Defense Department was set up Sept. 17, 1947.

Marshall sent word from his Leesburg, Va., home that he had to pass up the festivities and lunch for Neil H. McElroy, $285,000-a-year soap manufacturer who succeeds Wilson next month. McElroy was to leave later in the day on a two-week tour of guided missile, air defense, bomber and aircraft production facilities.

Child Dies in Tiny Box at Rear of School

LONG BRANCH, N.J. (UP) — Six-year-old Charles Harris died Monday night after being found virtually entombed in a tiny box behind a school.

The boy, who was not breathing when first found in the box Monday afternoon by a pupil safety patrol, earlier had been reported "desperately ill" at Monmouth Memorial Hospital.

The first grader was missed after the noon recess when his teacher called the roll. A search of the school grounds immediately was organized, but no trace of the boy could be found.

The search was about to be called off when a pupil safety patrol member lifted the clasp on the small box, located behind the school.

Authorities said the boy apparently squeezed himself into the box then pulled the lid, causing the clasp to fall shut. The box measured only 19½ inches square and 22 inches deep.

Pope Considers Naming of 12 New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII is considering naming 12 new cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church before the end of the year, Vatican sources said today.

The sources, unofficial but usually well informed, said two of the three new red hats probably would go to the United States and one might go to Africa, bringing the College of Cardinals, its first Negro member.

It also is considered possible the Pope will enlarge the college to meet the needs of modern times. Its membership was fixed at 70 by Pope Sixtus V in 1586 but can be increased.

The present membership of the highest body of the church is 58.

Most probable U.S. candidates for new red hats are believed to be Archbishop Richard J. Cushing, 62, of Boston; Archbishop John F. O'Hara, 69, of Philadelphia, and Auxiliary Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, 62, of New York.

If the Pontiff decides to name a resident cardinal in Africa, a possible candidate is Msgr. Joseph Kiwanuka, 60, of Masuka, Uganda. He would become the first Negro member.

Begin Probe of Airline Crash; Panel Undamaged

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (UP)—The virtually undamaged instrument panel of the ill-fated Northeast Airlines plane which crashed Sunday night, killing 11 persons, was regarded by investigators today as an important aid to finding the cause of the accident.

Even as officials went through the twisted wreckage of the twin-engined DC3 in a swamp only half a mile from the Municipal Airport, hospital officials announced that two other passengers had died, in addition to the nine found dead at the scene.

James S. Jeffers of Red Bank, N.J. died Monday night. Charles A. Chace, 40, of New York City died of injuries Monday morning.

Three of the remaining 13 passengers aboard the aircraft were in critical condition. They were Jeffers' wife, Anna Louise, Mrs. Blanche Rose of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Mrs. Clair Blair of Paterson, N.J.

Both the pilot, Capt. Vincent L Pitts, 34, of Wellesley, Mass., and his co-pilot, Capt. Roger W. Sweetland, 33, Arlington, Mass., were killed in the crash.

Civil Aeronautics Board officials said the intact instrument panel could furnish an important lead to the cause of the mishap, especially if it were mechanical. They also planned to call in a group of meteorological experts today to determine the exact weather conditions prevailing at the time of the accident.

St. Luke's to Hold Special Program Here

St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Monessen, will observe its 58th anniversary with a special program on October 5 and 6, it was announced today.

The public is invited to attend the congregation's two-day observance which will begin Saturday, Oct. 5 at 7:30 p.m. with a concert.

The musical program will consist of the Finnish Church Choir, the English Church Choir, Male Chorus, and Children's Chorus as well as piano and organ solos.

On Sunday, Oct. 6, the following religious events are planned:

Sunday School at 9:30 a.m.; Finnish worship service at 9:30 a.m.; English worship service at 11 a.m.

Special music will be offered at both worship services.

A ham dinner from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. will climax the observance.

Chief Chaplain

VATICAN CITY (UP)—The Vatican announced today that the Sacred Congregation of the Consistory constituted the Catholic vicarate of the United States armed forces with Francis Cardinal Spellman as chief chaplain.

Is Speaker for Chiropractic Dinner

Dr. Joseph Janes, president of the National College of Chiropractic, Chicago, Ill., will be the main speaker at the Chiropractic Founders Day dinner on Thursday at the Baldoc Hills Country Club near Irwin beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The event is sponsored annually by the Westmoreland County Chiropractors Association.

Dr. Janes, who is considered one of the outstanding authorities on spinal conditions, will speak on the "significance of the vertebral disc as the cause of back pains and headaches."

Grandmother in Second Hike Over Appalachian Trail

MT. KATAHDIN, Me. (UP) — Grandma Gatewood, almost 70 years old, climbed Mt. Katahdin Monday to end her second hike over the 2,026-mile Appalachian Trail.

Grandma — Mrs. Emma Gatewood of Gallipolis, Ohio—doesn't think she'll try the long trail again.

"Gettin' too old," she said. "I must have fallen a dozen times but I picked myself up and kept goin'."

Mrs. Gatewood said she saw a bear in Virginia, a moose in Maine and deer all along the trail, together with an occasional hiker. She slept in lean-to's and similar shelters along the way, sometimes stopping off at a restaurant or a farm house for a hot meal.

She said the hike was often tough going, but there were long stretches where she could just "dream along and enjoy the sights."

County Hibernians To Hold Banquet

The Ancient Order of Hibernians, Westmoreland County chapter, will hold its annual Barry Day banquet Sunday, Sept. 29, at the Penn Albert Hotel in Greensburg.

The affair is in commemoration of John Barry, outstanding Irish-American patriot who is credited by historians as being the "father" of the American Navy.

Henry J. Mahady and Cecelia Dougherty, both of Latrobe, are in charge of the banquet.

Hoffa Trying to Woo Bakery Workers Union

WASHINGTON (UP)—Teamster Vice President James R. Hoffa apparently is trying to woo the Bakery Workers Union into an alliance, labor sources said today. Both unions are facing a possible ouster by the AFL-CIO on corruption charges.

The sources said Hoffa, who is expected to be elected president of the union at the coming Teamster convention, flew in a chartered plane from Detroit to Cincinnati for a 45-minute talk Monday night to the Bakery Workers Executive Board.

At the meeting Hoffa was reported to have told Bakery Workers President James G. Cross that he hoped they would be "traveling the same road" when they next met in Miami, where the Teamsters are holding their convention Sept. 30. The sources here said this could be an indication Hoffa is seeking an ally if the AFL-CIO takes disciplinary action.

While Hoffa campaigns to become the successor to Dave Beck, the Senate Rackets Committee is delving back into his past again. The committee said it would resume hearings Sept. 24 on Hoffa's activities. Hoffa is being invited but not compelled to put in an appearance.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council is expected to issue specific clean-up orders to the Teamsters and Bakery Workers next week. If the orders aren't heeded both unions could face expulsion — although that step would have to be taken by a full convention of the labor organization.

Adenauer's Victory

THE VICTORY which Chancellor Konrad Adenauer won in the West German election on Sunday is about the best news the free world has had in a long time.

This is true not only because Dr. Adenauer is such a good and proven friend of the United States and such a staunch believer in democracy. Nor is is true just because the victory represents an endorsement by the German people of some specific Adenauer policies, such as the affiliation with NATO and cooperation between Germany and France. These aspects of the election victory are certainly important, but they are secondary in significance.

The transcendent meaning of this election, which gives Dr. Adenauer's Christian Democratic party absolute control of the Bundestag, is that it conveys in very unmistakable terms the determination of the German people to live a national life of anti-totalitarian freedom.

The Social Democrats, who constituted the principal opposition to Dr. Adenauer, did not, of course, propose an outright change of course. But they favored some kind of deal between West Germany and the Soviet Union which would permit quick unification. And no adult European thinks such a deal could be made at the present time except on a basis which would make Germany at best a flabby neutral.

By returning Dr. Adenauer with a tremendous majority, the German people have shown where they stand. They stand on the side of freedom, and no one who appreciates the strength and resourcefulness of these people can undervalue the significance of their decision. The struggle for a free and independent Europe would have dismal prospects without a resolute Germany in the front line.

* * *

WE OWE a great debt to the wise old statesman who has brought about this result. Dr. Adenauer's leadership of the Federal Republic in the last ten years, lifting it literally out of the frightful ruin of the war to a plane of authentic prosperity and genuine dignity, has been one of the most remarkable feats of statesmanship in the history of the world.

Those who may still have been doubting the genuineness of the German moral recovery from Nazism and the sincerity of the new nation in its allegiance to the free world can put aside their doubts. Sunday's election can only mean that this competent people has proven itself worthy of the help we have given it and now is entitled to our unqualified confidence.

A Serious Need

IT SEEMS to us regrettable that the churches of Monessen have had so little apparent success interesting youngsters in extra-curricular religious education programs.

A story in The Daily Independent last week reported that both Catholic and Protestant clergymen have experienced discouraging response even though children have been released from their classes in the public schools to receive religious instruction in their own faiths.

Because the law, as now construed, forbids all but the most perfunctory mentions in the schoolroom of the spiritual sides of their lives, many students go through the public schools with little understanding of their relationship with the Creator. In theory, they are supposed to acquire this understanding in their churches and from their parents. But in many instances, the practice is hardly a shadow of the theory.

The so-called "released time" programs, under which pupils are excused from school in order to attend religious classes, represent an effort to correct this deficiency. And in many communities, including some in this area, they have been effective.

We wish they could be in Monessen, too. And we hope church leaders, parents and school officials will not quit trying to find programs which will interest young people and help fill a serious gap in their preparation for adult life.

The Verdict

IT IS HARD to know just what to make of a statement by a thing called the Democratic Advisory Committee.

This group, composed of such party leaders as Harry Truman, Governor Harriman, Adlai Stevenson and Senator Humphrey, has announced its verdict that President Eisenhower "failed in his duty" in the Little Rock school situation.

The gentlemen reached this remarkable conclusion despite the fact that Governor Faubus of Arkansas, who precipitated the crisis, is a Democrat.

If we follow the reasoning of the Democratic Advisory Committee, it is saying that a Republican President is a failure who does not promptly correct the errors of a Democratic Governor.

If the Democratic Advisory Committee could not bring itself to an outright condemnation of an official of its own party who was directly responsible for the Little Rock debacle, the decent thing, it seems to us, would have been to preserve a discreet silence.

But then it's a little hard to conceive of a body of which Harry Truman is an influential member as being either discreet or silent.

From Washington—

Adenauer's Victory Helps West

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

BONN — In the wake of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's third-term victory the whole free world has reason to draw a sigh of relief today.

Mr. Drummond

Certainly it is a tremendous personal triumph for this venerable, vigorous, animate, young-old leader of West Germany's post-war democracy, whose 81 years reach far to the past but whose mind looks to the future.

But it is far more than that.

This is a victory which adds starch and strength to the Western Alliance.

This is a victory which gives the Kremlin's greatest pain.

It is a victory:

1 — Which yields Chancellor Adenauer a decisive mandate to keep the West German Republic unwaveringly allied with the West.

2 — Which assures the continuance of a dynamic free enterprise, un-socialist economy in the most powerful democracy of the continent.

Soviet Arms Lost

One way to measure the meaning of what the German voters did this past weekend is to bear in mind that the overriding purposes of the Soviet Union are to drive NATO out of existence, to drive West Germany into neutralism, and to impose a state of military and political weakness here at the very heart of Western Europe..

To achieve these ends Moscow wanted nothing more than to bring Adenauer down.

The people of West Germany, going to the polls in exceptionally large number and thereby strengthening their precious hard-earned democracy, have now delivered an implacable no.

And it is more than a "no" to the Kremlin. It is a positive victory for the West. It is a vote which gives new authority to the Adenauer government to pursue resolutely policies which are pro-Western, pro-American, pro-European and of the greatest importance, pro-French.

Voters Totally Free

Why is it accurate to report that this third West German post-war election was more than a personal vote of confidence for the stern patriarchal Chancellor who has guided this country's rise from the ashes of Adolf Hitler? There are two reasons.

One is that this was the first national election since the Federal Republic was loosed from the reins of the Allies. This was an election in which the German voter was totally free to be himself.

Secondly, in a series of some 45 speeches in 35 days Adenauer has personally, persistently and explicitly put the central decisions of this election before his audiences in terms which could leave his supporters in no doubt of what they are sanctioning.

I have listened to this Adenauer speech — it was nearly the same every night and ran for an hour and twenty minutes to two hours — several times in the last few days. It had few oratorical flourishes; it was direct and conversational; it put before the German voters his exact purposes, policies and intentions more bluntly, more correctly and less evasively than any American campaign speech I've ever heard.

But over and over again Adenauer told the German people that his government, faced with choosing an alliance with the East or with the West, chose the West irrevocably; that NATO must be preserved if Europe is to be free; that Germany must help achieve a united Europe; that the only secure and worthy future Germany can have is with the free world led by the United States.

To these ends German voters have now given an emphatic yes and the Adenauer government goes back into office to do its part in bringing them about.

As I watched Adenauer give his accounting, and his vision, to his responsive audiences in Germany this week, I could not escape the feeling that this ageless statesman was drawing personal strength as well as political strength from the election.

He now enters his third term apparently younger than ever and intent upon making Germany the best, the strongest and the most steadfast ally the United States and the free world can have.

Soviet Operations in Mideast

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's note: Drew Pearson is now reporting from the vitally important Near East.)

BEIRUT — (Via Radio) — An important vote comes up in the United Nations today in New York which will affect American leadership in the Arab world and this most vital part of the entire world. It's a vote to decide between Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand and Dr. Charles Malik, Foreign Minister of Lebanon, as next president of the UN General Assembly. Both are good men and both are excellent friends of the United States.

Mr. Pearson

Paradoxically, the Soviet bloc is supporting Malik despite the fact that he is bitterly opposed to Soviet penetration of the Near East. He has battled against Communism and is one of the best Arab friends the United States has. Moscow is supporting him in the UN election for just one reason: the Kremlin is wooing the Arab world with every device and gimmick in its copious bag of tricks and one of them is to put the United States in the position of opposing the Arab, Malik, as president of the UN Assembly.

At this writing it looks as if this would happen. Some time ago the United States made a pledge to Munro to support him for the Assembly presidency. Now we are in the embarrassing position of having either to break that pledge or to vote against our best friend in the Arab world. The situation illustrates the Soviet's current diplomatic skill unlike the blundering days when Molotov was at the helm. The Soviet today is not missing a single trick.

Note — It happens that Malik and Munro are good friends and have personal admiration for each other. Western deplomats have been hoping that Munro would withdraw from the election, thereby releasing the United States from its pledge.

Crucial Penetration

Soviet penetration off the Near East is just as serious as Loy Henderson reported to Washington — in fact, considerably more serious than the temporizing statement of John Foster Dulles indicated last week. What Moscow has done is stake out a triangular claim in the three most crucial parts of an area that controls 70 per cent of the world's oil, which dominates the pathway to Asia and which has been sought after by rulers of the world since before the days of Christ.

The three points of this Soviet triangle are the Suez Canal, which Moscow can dominate through its friend, Egypt's Nasser; Yamen, at the mouth of the Red Sea, and Syria, which has just installed a pro-Soviet government. Yemen, which lies next to the British desert outpost of Aden guarding the entrance to the Red Sea, had recently received 200 Russian MIGs. There probably isn't one Yemenite who can fly a MIG. They can drive camels and goats with the same techniques used in the days of Abraham, but not MIGs. Furthermore, the MIGs are of no value to them except one purpose: to rout the British and scare King Saud and his oil away from the Arabian-American Oil Co.

Further north, in Syria, Moscow has negotiated the following secret arms deal with military men who have taken over the Syrian government: $150,000,000 worth of Russian arms for Syria, including six submarines, three squadrons of Russian MIG-19s — the fastest fighter plane Russia produces — plus eight airfields to be built in Syria before 1960.

Skilled Subversion

To understand the skill with which Moscow has been subverting in the Near East you have to realize the strategic importance of Syria geographically. It is the key to the Arab states of the Near East. You can't get to Iraq from the Mediterranean without passing through Syria. You can't get to Jordan without passing through Syria. You can't get to Saudi Arabia or Kuwait on the Persian Gulf without flying over or passing through Syria.

And this country sitting squarely astride the crossroads of the Arab Near East is now definitely dominated by Russia.

In brief, while the State Department has been worrying about the German elections, stewing over passports for Americans wanting to go to China, and currying favor with the aging Chiang Kai shek, the Kremlin has been skillfully staking out a strategic triangle in this part of the world which can squeeze Europe's oil-dependent factories dry as a sucked lemon and which can call the political tune for North Africa. For, as the Near East goes between Communism and the west, go goes Africa.

How Soviet Operates

Here are some of the techniques used by the Soviet to subvert this area. One is to win over the clergy, especially the Moslem clergy. Another is to win the intellectuals, especially the poor intellectuals. A Moslem Hodga will receive an emissary from Russian Tashkent saying the Moslem people there want his learned opinion on some matter of Moslem law. He takes this seriously, writes his opinion, and is surprised a month later to receive 1,000 pounds. Thereafter he is a friend of Russia.

Or a Lebanese or a Syrian professor will be asked to write an article on astronomy for an obscure Soviet magazine. He then receives 100 pounds. Though he won't know it, the article will be thrown away but he will be asked to write every month or so and receives a steady income from Moscow.

About 200 intellectuals alone in the small country of Lebanon have thus been won over to the Soviet orbit. The United States recently sent ten million dollars to King Saud. We'd have been much wiser to have sent him nine and a half million and devoted the other half million to discreet expenditure with the Moslem clergy and intellectuals who mould public opinion. American policy has been relying too heavily on arms and kings and neglecting the masses. The Soviet talks about the masses while ignoring them and bets its money on those who can influence the masses.

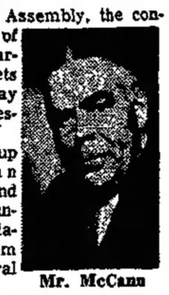
Behind The News—

French Premier Faces Hard Test on Algeria

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury of France is facing critical tests of his North African and domestic policies.



Mr. McCann

The National Assembly, the controlling house of the French Parliament, meets in Paris today in a special session.

It will take up the Algerian problem and Bourges-Maunoury's anti-inflationary system of agricultural price controls.

Bourges-Maunoury plans to offer the assembly a long-considered, complicated plan to divide Algeria into federal areas in hope that he can end the rebellion which has been draining France's treasury for nearly three years.

Demand Complete Independence

But the rebels have rejected the plan in advance as falling short of the complete independence they demand.

Both the extreme right and extreme left wings of the National Assembly are criticising it also. The rightists say it would give too much freedom to Algeria. The leftists say it does not go far enough.

Bourges-Manoury hopes to push through his plan, in hope he can work out some compromise with the Algerian Nationalists.

He is trying also to get it approved before the United Nations General Assembly takes up the Algerian issue.

The General Assembly will open its regular annual meeting Tuesday, simultaneously with the French National Assembly.

Danger To Peace

On the U.N. program is a resolution, offered by 21 "anti-colonial" Asian and African countries, to debate the Algerian issue as a danger to peace.

As soon as the Algerian debate has been finished in the National Assembly, Bourges-Maunoury will face a much more serious debate on his agricultural price controls.

That issue could bring about a vote of no confidence and thus force Bourges-Maunoury's resignation as France's 22nd post-war premier.

French farmers, regarded as the chief stabilizing force in politically-mercurial France—and powerfully represented in Parliament—bitterly oppose the price controls.

Bourges-Maunoury imposed the controls last month as part of his "austerity" program. Under this plan, ceilings were set on farm prices.

Farmers threaten nation-wide strikes if the controls are maintained.

Pressure by agricultural interests forced Bourges-Maunoury to call a special session of Parliament on that issue. He set it for Sept. 24. But he advanced the date to today in order to give priority to Algeria.

The Lighter Side—

Precise Meaning of Words Illustrated

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) —What with societies, television programs, books, magazines, and various calculated rump movements at work on the problem of what the English language means when it says something, it is no wonder that arguments on the subject are getting as common as those about politics, sports, or the rectitude of scandal magazines.

The care and coddling of the language has moved into the market place, the pulpit, and even, alas, the saloon, where once a man could drink his fill and say what he thought.

Nowadays he's in danger of being told that he may thing he said what he thought but that actually if he had thought what he would say before he said it. . .Oh, well, anyhow the word he used was not the right one.

Three Gents Argue

And so it was, the story goes, that three gents got to talking in a local bar one fuzzy evening and gradually got onto a loud dictionary kick. Their talk about the niceties of word-turning got so boisterous that they were drowning out the juke box, a sin that finally made the bartender do a slow but white-hot burn.

"Gentlemen," he said, "please be so kind as to lower your voices below a bellow or I shall become so unhappy that I shall be obliged to escort each of you by the seat of the pants off the premises."

"Look, Gus," said one of the men, "that would be drastic action and you should not say you would be unhappy. What you mean is that you would be annoyed."

Gus Is Annoyed

"No," said the second arguer, "I think what he meant to say was that he would be exasperated."

"You don't precisely have it," said the third. "To throw out the three of us, he'd need to be frenzied."

"What's the difference?" said Gus. "I say I'd be unhappy, and I say you'd be out on the street."

"Difference?" said the third man. "I will demonstrate the difference with a practical illustration if the house will kindly set up the drinks."

"Proceed," said the bartender, setting up three drinks.

"Let us first examine an example of annoyance," said the third man, and he led the group to the phone book, fingered a number, and called it.

They Seek Max

A sleepy male voice answered and our man asked: "Is Max there?"

"Ain't no Max lives here—you got the wrong number; get it right."

"He was annoyed," said our man, hanging up. The three took 15 minutes to finish the house drinks, and then our man said: "Now I will demonstrate exasperation."

He dialed the same number, got the same fellow: "Is Max there?" "Look you crazy oaf," the man shouted. "I told you there ain't no Max here. Cut out calling me, Buster, or I'll call the cops. Now get lost."

The three had another round on the house. "And now," said our man, "please step over and I will show you frenzy."

He called the same number, heard the same voice answer, and then said gently into the mouthpiece: "This is Max. Are there any messages for me?"

Peoples Forum—

The Tragedy of Poland

To the Editor:

Every year on Sept. 17, the anti-Communist Polish American Congress reminds and will continue to remind Americans of that tragic day in 1939 when the Russians, in criminal collaboration with the Nazis, stabbed friendly Poland in the back and subsequently plunged the world into chaos.

May the lesson to be learned from this, and other brazen examples of Soviet treachery, including the recent ruthless slaughter of Hungarians, penetrate the minds of those who refuse to recognize Communism as a dangerous threat.

The Russian bear is anything but friendly. The menace of Communism is not diminishing. Red espionage and propaganda activities span the whole world. Communist growth is evident everywhere. It is now picking up momentum in Syria. The mid-east crisis has been described as extremely serious by our State Department.

Soviet leaders have repeatedly predicted a worldwide victory of communism in the 20th century and they are certainly making alarming progress towards the fullfillment of that goal.

Perhaps the Russian announcement of the perfection of the intercontinental ballistic missile will now serve as a spur to strengthen our defenses. No matter how costly this may be, it will be cheaper than war with its staggering loss of human lives.

Whether the Soviet claim is true or not, it would be a fatal mistake to underestimate the enormous progress made by the Russians in the missile field. On June 23, 1955, Gen. Thomas White warned that Russia would have hundreds of nuclear-tipped intercontinental missiles by 1960 and that America is lagging behind in defenses against this peril.

Strong though America may be, it must always remain stronger than Russia. The instinct of self-preservation dictates the dire necessity of keeping ahead in the missile race. It is the key to our survival.

Only a strong America can guarantee a free America.

As for the Reds, they will abandon their aggressive designs when they are convinced they can't win.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

After the Ball (Game) is Over—

Most certainly if the Windber-Monessen game Saturday night wasn't the most thrilling high school ever witnessed by the fans in attendance, it ranks among the all-time thrillers somewhere near the top of the list . . . No sooner would one touchdown be chalked up on the scoreboard than another would be in the making . . . The game had everything you could want in a football contest—suspense, thrills in the form of long passes, long runs, punt return touchdowns (two by the 'Hounds in succession inside of three minutes) . . . Whether either team's defense is that bad will be determined in future contests . . . We sort of feel that it was just one of those games where nothing could have stopped the avalanche of scoring once it got rolling . . . A real spine-tingler!

* * *

Monessen's loss to Windber was only one of many, many surprises in the openers, starting with Bellmar's 26-6 defeat at the hands of Perryopolis . . . Then came games like the Donora loss to North Catholic, Brownsville edging Munhall, the West Newton-Bentleyville tie, Waynesburg's first win over Jefferson in 23 years, etc. . . . Crystal-gazers were reportedly planning a mass suicide with so many upsets clouding the picture . . . Now it'll be twice as difficult to get the line on the teams for you won't know until they play another game whether it was the first game surprise element in the openers or the real line on teams like Donora, Brownsville, Bellmar and others.

* * *

Many Outstanding Backs in Openers

Outstanding backs in the openers were the four Monessen backfielders, with the hard-running of Joe Karbowsky, especially surprising but not much more than the trickiness of Ken Bronson, the alertness of Dan Barton or the power of Carl Rattay . . . Bobby Johnson, son of the former Monongahela High cage coach, now junior high mentor there, and Mike McCurdy, son of Monessen assistant Harry McCurdy, were tops for Monongahela, Johnson showing shiftiness and speed, McCurdy tremendous power . . . As expected Angie Dabiero and Tom Urbanik were almost the whole show in Donora's loss to North Catholic . . . Art Bentley was the complete show for Brownsville and Charleroi's Joe Uhlman was outstanding for the Cougars.

* * *

Windber High School has one of the finest athletic plants we've ever seen with the stadium seating 10,000 fans, or practically a seat for every person in the town of 9,000 plus population . . . And what a novel way they have for paying off the stadium which was built about three years ago — a stock car racing track was constructed around the gridiron and the revenue from the races goes toward cancelling out the stadium debt . . . One of the awards which were made by Windber merchants during half-time of the game went to Andy Bachuchin, Monessen fan . . . And how about the fine show put on by the Monessen band plus the excellent announcing job turned in by Dolores Komatz?

'All Set' for Russell Testimonial

Plans are all set for the testimonial banquet for veteran Donora grid coach Jimmy Russell on December 28 at Twin Coaches . . . He'll be honored by a committee of Donora citizens and former Donorans, like Dr. Michael Duda, President of California State Teachers College, ex-Superintendent of Schools here . . . It was sweet revenge for the Belle Vernon Firemen "River Rats" as they evened the softball series with arch rival North Belle Vernon by out-classing the (?) Cats on the terrific hurling of Bart Carney and faultless fielding in copping a 9-5 victory Sunday to avenge an earlier set-back . . . North Belle Vernon had to use three pitchers, Lou Ceccarelli, Jr., Jimmy Koslosky and Bill Sullenberger but couldn't stem the BV hitting tide . . . Instead of a third softball tilt the deciding game will be a bowling match. More on this later.

'Fighting Men' Favoring Sugar Ray, Moore

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — The oddsmakers have established Carmen Basilio and Tony Anthony as the favorites in two imminent title fights but the experts along broken beak boulevard are giving the advance nod today to a pair of pappy guys named Ray Robinson and Archie Moore.

Basilio is 8-5 to take the middleweight title from Sugar Ray at Yankee Stadium next Monday night. And Anthony is 6-5 to knock the light heavyweight diadem off old Archie's patent leather locks at Los Angeles on Friday night.

But those who make boxing their business, warning that these are a couple of bouts in which it would be wise not to invest any pocket lettuce, hint that a "must" bettor should go for the short end.

The question, in both bouts, is whether the elder participant still has the hand speed to land a good night set of knuckles on the younger man's jawbone. Everything else is window dressing.

Youth vs Experience

Moore would seem to have the most difficult assignment. He must pare down from more than 200 pounds to the 175-pound limit and, at 41, he is spotting Anthony an impressive total of 19 years. Robinson is only six — or maybe seven —years older than Basilio and has had no weight problem.

Archie claims, however, that he learned a secret reducing system from an Australian aborigine and that he can shed the weight without losing strength. If this be so, the pertient question as seen by the pertinent question as seen by the clan along cauliflower canyon is whether he still can punch with the old-time Moore rapidity.

Tony Has Glass Jaw

If he can, they say, Anthony is in for a rugged evening.

Because while the young New Yorker has speed, a good punch and is a smart boxer, he has a crystal chin. Tony has flattened 24 rivals in 36 bouts. Yet of the four fights he lost—he was stiffened in each.

Fight men, who are frequently as wrong as anybody else, can't understand the Basilio favoritism. They hold that if Robinson has a weight edge of about eight pounds, which he probably will tote into the ring, it will mean much in the way of firepower.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, a long-time commission examiner of athletes, holds that Sugar Ray physically is better than Jersey Joe Walcott was when that muscular marvel won the heavyweight title at an age estimated variously from 38 to 40.

"Robinson Remarkable"

"Robinson is a remarkable athlete and his legs look as good as ever," Nardiello insists. "His hand speed may have slowed a little but he still is one of the greatest fighters, pound for pound, in ring history."

Nardiello, it must be emphasized, also is Robinson's personal physician and close friend.

But the fight mob accepts his analysis and figures that Robinson will bust up Basilio in about eight heats for a TKO and probably stow him away in that time. Basilio, one of the toughest body punchers of recent times, has other ideas, mainly pounding Robinson until he runs out of gas.

There is a great contrast between the challengers. Anthony knows what it means to be flogged into limbo. Basilio has never been kayoed. But, then, the experts reply, neither had Gene Fullmer until Robinson lowered the boom.

Niccolai In Search For Place-kicker

"We're going to find a kicker if I have to do the extra-point kicking myself," stated Armand Niccolai, Monessen High grid mentor today.

The reason for such a strong statement was naturally the inability to convert after touchdowns in Saturday's game with Windber which actually beat the Greyhounds.

"Nick" has Vince Pascarella, 210-pound tackle, doing the kicking off but apparently the husky lineman isn't ready for the place-kicking duties after touchdowns.

Bob Pauline, a guard, tried one Saturday night following the second Monessen touchdown but the boot went wide and the locals didn't try a kick after that. As a result they made only one point after touchdown.

Windber wasn't much better, connecting on only two kicks in six tries but the one more than the 'Hounds was exact margin of victory.

In practice sessions last week Richard Bass, 155-pound sophomore, was getting off some fair boots in kickoff practice and may get a crack at placement-kicking through the uprights this week.

It's too bad Niccolai can't do it himself as he threatened for he was one of the best booters ever to come out of the valley and a top pointmaker by toe in the National Professional League for years. It's an ironic twist of fate that has him coaching a team which has no outstanding kicker that the talented coach can develop but he may uncover a surprise this week.

Final Thursday Heidelberg Show

Herb Scott of Wexford and Dick Linder of Pittsburgh will tangle again this week when Heidelberg runs its last Thursday night show of the season.

The two top drivers in the Pittsburgh Racing Assn. will run against each other in a match race to climax their feud which has been running all season.

Scott, of course, has wrapped up the PRA season title in points. But Linder still has the edge in feature wins over Scott.

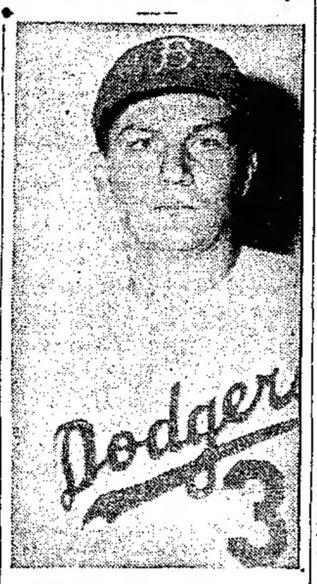
Last week, both went all out to take the 50-lap race at Heidelberg with Scott coming out on top and Linder second. But Dick came back to beat Herb in a match race at South Park Saturday night.

Thursday also will be Gus Race Fan night with more than $1000 in cash and prizes to be given away in appreciation for the fine attendance this season.

Petty Confident of Future in Baseball

Bob Petty, former Monessen High School athlete, is confident that he has a future in organized baseball as a fastballing pitcher.

Bob has just returned from his first season in the Brooklyn Dodger farm system. And he's more determined than ever to make the big leagues.



Bob Petty

Petty, a strapping 6-4, started the past season at Kokomo, Ind., in the Midwest League. His manager there was Pete Reiser, the former Brooklyn outfielder.

In June, Dodger farm officials transferred Pitty to Bluefield, W. Va. in the Class D Appalachian League. Bob was used mainly in relief roles at Kokomo, posting no record.

But he was immediately pressed into service at Bluefield, both as a starter and reliefer. He turned in a 5-2 record during his stay there.

Petty helped his club to the Appalachian League title. He pitched two scoreless innings of relief ball in the game that meant the pennant.

At Bluefield, he was managed by Jimmy Bragan, brother of former Pirate boss Bobby Bragan.

Petty has added some weight to his 6-4 frame. He now tips the beams at a solid 220 pounds.

At Monessen High, Bob was a member of the fine 1955-56 basketball team which advanced to the WPIAL finals before bowing to Farrell, the eventual state champion.

Petty was awkward at the start of the year, but through determination and practice he developed into a truly standout performer. He's hoping that same sort of determination will help him in his diamond career.

Bob has natural baseball ability, according to scouts. He specializes in a fast ball, but he is also learning a variety of pitches.

He was good enough as a high school hurler to attract the attention of Jim Russell, the former major leaguer from Fayette City who scouts the area for the Dodgers.

Russell signed Petty to a Brooklyn contract and started him on his professional baseball career the past season.

Groat, Thomas To Attend Fete Here Thursday

Dick Groat and Frank Thomas of the Pittsburgh Pirates will be in town Thursday night to help honor the local PONY Leaguers.

The Buc stars will be at the Pythian Center, Sixth St. and Schoonmaker Ave. for the annual Mother-Father and Son banquet of the local League.

Efforts are also being made to have another Pittsburgh sports celebrity on hand.

The banquet which will feature an outstanding program including Mayor Hugo Parente and other officials will get underway Thursday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

In charge of the banquet are the local PONY League officers which include: Paul Pushnack, president, Nicholas Cullen, vice-president, Steve Tkachik, secretary, and Andrew Carollo, treasurer.

Engineers Unbeaten In PS Office League

It was the Engineers, Production and Order topping Shipping, Payroll and General Office in the Pittsburgh Steel Office League Bowling last night at the CIO alleys.

F. Owsiany rolled the single game high of 199, L. Evancho the three-game high of 494.

Other top scorers were Herb Johnson, Harry Myers, Joe Showmaker and T. Gilchrist.

Standings—Engineers 6-0, Order 5-1, General 2-4, Production 2-4, Shipping 2-4 and Payroll 1-5.

Packers Trim

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UP) — The Green Bay Packers trimmed their roster to 42 players today by placing Credell Green, George Belotti, John Macerelli, Pat Hinton and Dalton Truax on the waiver list. All were rookies except Macarelli, who was obtained in an off-season trade with Cleveland.

Double-bill Set For Tonight at Stadium Here

It's Jefferson and Frank-Lin in the opener at 7:15 followed by a Vocational vs. Lincoln contest in the second Midget Football League double-header of the 1957 season here tonight.

Last week's openers saw surprises sprung in both games with Lincoln winning its first opener in several seasons, stopping Frank-Lin, 6-0 and Vocational having a 10 game win streak snapped in the second tilt by Jefferson, 7-6.

A banner crowd witnessed last week's games and it is felt that with the interest high now due to the upsets last week an even larger crowd will witness tonight's contests.

Outstanding in last week's games were Stanley Hamlin of the Lincoln eleven who scored the lone TD for Coach Dale Simpson's lads, Eric Crabtree for Jefferson, and Ralph Nuzzaci and Tommy Hornak for the Vocational team. All of those mentioned above thrilled the crowd and gave promise of additional thrilling action this week.

The Elks and the Knights of Columbus organizations will handle the usual details which fall to different civic and fraternal groups of the community, at tonight's game. Last week the Ravens Club was in charge.

The season will run through a six-game schedule finishing up on Oct. 15 with a game between the League All-Stars and League champion set for Oct. 22.

If opening night was any indication, the league should have one of its finest seasons this year.

Monongahela Game Ducats Go On Sale

Reserved seat tickets for the Monessen-Monongahela football game Friday night at Monongahela to go on sale at the High School gymnasium office here tonight between 7 and 9 o'clock, Faculty Manager of Athletics Armand Mori announced today. The tickets will remain on sale Wednesday and Thursday nights. The charge is $1.25.

A change in the seating arrangement at the Monongahela field has opponent (which includes Monessen this Friday) fans sitting on the high school side of the field instead of the 12th Street side as in the past. There is a student and adult gate on the school side, to be used accordingly, Mori added.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

HITS OFF-CENTER

The error most often made at the start of the downswing is a simple one: the player starts his "hit" too quickly. The player tries to apply maximum power from the time the backswing ends.

There are two all-important reasons why this power must be delayed until the time the hands pass the right trousers pocket. First, if the all-out effort is made from the top, clubhead speed will be diminished when the hitting area is reached. Second, a big hitting effort at the top of the swing is apt to pull the player off balance. The result? On off-center blow.

Start down smoothly. Get that left foot planted back where it was at the start. Get the weight over on the left side where it belongs. By the time you have done these things, the hands should be about half way down.

That's the time to let fly at the ball — with all your CONTROLLED POWER.

New Records Set in Finishing-Electric

R. Calderoni and G. Kuvinka set new marks in Finishing Side Electric League bowling last night, Calderoni rolling 546 for the three-game record, Kuvinka 225 for the single game mark.

Other high scorers were J. Lenio, D. Lehew, A. Spadafore, and N. Iacovino.

Standings — Pitt-Carbon 5-1, General Electric 4-2, Westinghouse, 4-2, Clark 3-3, Reliance 2-4, E. C. & G 0-6.

Grand Parlors Loop Openers Tomorrow

Grand Parlors City League Bowling Action begins tomorrow night at 9:15 o'clock on the Parlors alleys, it was announced today.

Four teams are entered including Cousins (Capt. Art Palm); Aquarium (Capt. John Galvan); Cro-Ams (Capt. Charles Viasic); Elks (Capt. Skeetz Jones).

Keys, Arches Win Construction Games

Construction League Bowling action victories went to the Keys and Arches over the Wedges and Squares last night.

Check Bixsey rolled top games with a 163 single and a 407 three game high. Al Milkent, Jim Russell and Piasecki also knocked down enough pins to rate among the top point-getters.

Standings — Arches 5-1, Wedges 3-3, Keys 3-3, Squares 1-5.

Braves Finally Come to Life in Blasting Philadelphia Nine, 5 - 1

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Those "pallbearers" had better find themselves another funeral somewhere because the suddenly come - alive Milwaukee Braves don't look as if they're going to play the fall guys for a National League burial party.

Just when everyone was despairing of his chances, that Milwaukee "patient" showed a decided turn for the better today and it could be the crisis is past, what with the end of a three-game losing streak and a more comforting three-game lead in the race.

The Braves brought the big change about when they snapped out of their slump with a 14-hit attack that overcame the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-1, Monday night.

A Brighter Air

Gone was the morgue-like atmosphere which had pervaded the Braves' clubhouse following Sunday's loss to the Phils. Absent also was Fred Haney's biting reference of "Here come the pallbearers" as writers entered the Milwaukee dressing room after the Cardinals had cut the lead to 2½ games on Sunday.

The chief three Milwaukee players who helped dispel the gloom were Bob Buhl, Del Rice and Johnny Logan.

Buhl, pitching his first complete game since he was sidelined with arm trouble Aug. 18, held the Phillies to eight hits and the only run he yielded was unearned in the eighth inning. The victory was Buhl's seventh in a row and 17th of the season against six losses. He is 5-0 against Philadelphia this year.

Rice, never much of a slugger, poled a homer off loser Harvey Haddix in the third inning and the Braves were never headed. Logan headed the Braves' attack with three hits.

The victory reduced the Braves' pennant - clinching "magic number" to nine. They have 11 games left to play as do the second-place Cardinals.

Redlegs Eliminated

In the only other game played Monday night, the Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers, 3-2, in 10 innings but were mathematically eliminated from pennant contention due to the Braves' triumph.

Rookie outfielder Joe Taylor drove in all three of Cincinnati's runs. He hit solo homers in the first and sixth innings and then walked with the bases full in the 10th to force in the winning run.

Johnny Klippstein of the Redlegs pitched a six - hitter while southpaw Johnny Podres was the loser. Podres gave way to Ed Roebuck after Ed Bailey opened the 10th with a single and Roebuck issued the game - deciding walk to Taylor.

Rain cancelled a scheduled game between the Orioles and Indians and also washed out a game between the second - place White Sox and Senators. The Chicago-Washington game will be replayed Sept. 30 only if it has a direct bearing on the finish of any of the first four American League clubs.

Army-Tulane Contest Transfer Criticized

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Louisiana Congressman F. Edward Hebert today criticized a state segregation law and several organizations which forced transfer of the Nov. 16 Army-Tulane football game from New Orleans to West Point.

The U.S. Military Academy and Tulane in a joint statement Monday announced the game will be played at West Point instead of in the Sugar Bowl here because of a Louisiana segregation law. The 1956 law bans interracial athletic events and forbids integrated seating.

Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, academy superintendent, and Dr. Fred Cole, acting president of Tulane agreed on the change in site.

Hebert accused the Department of the Army of giving in to "vicious propaganda of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People."

Tulane was blamed, too. The university "compromised the issue" by agreeing to transfer the game to West Point, the New Orleans Democrat said.

"Tulane should have stood firm on the principle and fulfillment of the contract signed by the Army," he said.

The defense put up by Tulane and West Point was that a fresh study of Louisiana's segregation laws revealed that the segregated seating arrangement in the Sugar Bowl would prevail in the section of seats sold by West Point. Tulane announced it will refund money for individual tickets and season tickets after Oct. 1.

Rep. James Fulton (R - Pa.) on Sept. 4 made the first public outcry against Army playing in New Orleans. He asked President Eisenhower to forbid the game to be played in New Orleans because Louisiana segregates whites and negroes.

Pirates Meet Redlegs With Eight to Go

CINCINNATI (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, with only eight more games to play, meet Cincinnati tonight in the first of a two-game series.

Bob Friend (12-17) will start against Joe Nuxhall (9-10).

The Wednesday game with Cincinnati will be the final game played by Pittsburgh against a western team.

Going into tonight's contest, the Pirates are one-half game or five percentage points out of last place. The Chicago Cubs, who will make a last ditch effort in final games to go ahead of Pittsburgh, meet Philadelphia today.

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh said he would start pitchers George Witt and Bennie Daniels, who join the Pirates Wednesday from Hollywood, before the season ends.

Witt has won 18 and lost 6 while Daniels' record is 17-7. The two righthanders finished the Hollywood season Monday.

For other starting assignments in final games, Murtaugh said he would depend on Bob Friend and Ron Kline, who will pitch two each, and Friend possibly three.

Rams Cut Roster

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Dick Enright, a rookie guard, has been placed on the Los Angeles Rams' reserve list in order to complete his studies at Southern California. The Rams also announced that Jack Ellena, another guard, has been placed on the waiver list.

Cotton-Sugar Hart Fight to Draw

NEW YORK (UP) — Middleweight Charley (King) Cotton and welterweight Garnet (Sugar) Hart, who fought to a 10-round draw at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night, will be matched for a return TV fight in the same ring, Oct. 28.

Promoter Teddy Brenner said, "I'll ask the boxing commission to let them fight 9 or 11 rounds to prevent another draw."

Cotton of Toledo, Ohio, who weighed 151 pounds to the 146 for young Hart of Philadelphia, was an underdog at 13-5. And Cotton was dropped to one knee by a right to the chin in the fifth round. But his aggressiveness and clubbing rights provided thrilling, close competition.

Referee Arthur Mercante scored 4-4-2 on rounds and 5-5 on points. Judge Frank Fullam also had it a draw, 5-5 and 6-6. But Judge Nick Gamboli favored Cotton, 5-4-1. The United Press had Hart ahead, 5-3-2.

LA Makes 'Firm And Final Offer' On Dodger Move

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The somewhat reluctant Los Angeles City Council placed a "firm and final" offer on the desk of the Brooklyn Dodgers today — but Dodger executives said they would await official reports on the proposal before making any decision on joining the "Westward ho" movement in the National League.

Warned by Mayor Norris Poulson that they had "reached the crossroads" in their negotiations with O'Malley, the City Council Monday voted 11-3 to approve a plan mapped by official negotiator Harold McClellan. But the successful ballot came only after a stormy three-hour session in which the mayor clashed with several councilmen and after one man said he would ask the council to reconsider the move today.

McClellan maintained that his plan was somewhat "short" of what O'Malley originally had requested. He was confident that the Brooklyn boss would accept the offer.

In a nutshell, here is what Los Angeles offered the Dodgers if they will come West:

—To trade 300 acres of land in Chavez Ravine in downtown Los Angeles, with two million dollars in improvements on it, to the Dodgers in exchange for the Dodgers' Wrigley Field. Estimates on the value of the property owned by the Dodgers here have ranged from two to six million dollars.

—The city would retain half the oil and mineral rights to the acreage. (This is an important factor in the trade of any land in this area as oil wells can be spotted from any upstairs window in the city. It brought the query from Councilman Ransom Callicott: "Why do the Dodgers need oil and mineral rights to operate a ball club?")

—The city would retain title to 40 acres of the land to be leased to the Dodgers. On this land, the Dodgers would spend $500,000 in construction of recreational facilities and spend at least $60,000 each year for maintenance.

O'Malley already has announced that if he moves west, his organization will furnish the capital to construct a 50,000-seat stadium.

Baltimore Colts Have Work Cut Out for Them This NFL Season

By OLIVER MORRISON

BALTIMORE, Md. (UP) — The ambitious Baltimore Colts have their work cut out for them in the National Football League this year.

Coach Weeb Ewbank said he believes a winner can be built in five years. Club President Carroll Rosenbloom hasn't been so specific, but he is a successful businessman with a burning desire to bring Baltimore its first pro football championship.

The Colts had a 5-7 record last year when they finished fourth in the Western division. Improving that record may take a bit of doing. The basic trouble is that even though the Colts appear to be an improved club the other teams shape up even stronger.

The Colts' chance of making dreams of glory a reality depend on improvement in the offensive line and the defensive backfield.

Baltimore is well - stocked at quarterback, the running attack is strong and the defensive line is rugged.

Ewbank is counting on the rookies to correct the weaknesses. On that offensive line, all-America Jim Parker from Ohio State and huge Luke Owens of Kent State have looked good at tackle. The position is new to Parker but he seems to be a corner.

The Colts intercepted only 13 passes all last season but old pros like Bert Rechichar and Carl Taseff should get needed help from at least three newcomers. Big Don Shinnick of UCLA intercepted two passes against the Bears in an exhibition game. Milt Davis, also of UCLA, looks promising, and relatively unknown Andy Nelson of Memphis State has been a pleasant surprise.

Ewbank has the running threat in fullback Alan Ameche and halfback Lenny Moore, rookies of the year in 1955 and 1956, L. G. Dupre, Royce Womble and Dick Nyers. Nyers is a pocket-sized reserve from last year who is attracting attention at both halfback and offensive end. Billy Pricer, of Oklahoma fame, knocked Dick Young right off the team as second man behind Ameche.

Baltimore is well - stocked at quarterback with Johnny Unitas, a castoff from the Pittsburgh Steelers who was one of the surprises of last year, George Shaw and cotton Davidson. Shaw was out most of last year with a knee injury and Davidson was in the Army.

Ewbank even had his old friend all-time pro great Otto Graham in training camp at Western Maryland College for a week to give the boys a few tips on the art of passing. The feeling is that Graham's instructions were not wasted.

The Colts have two of the top ten pass receivers in the league in former Notre Dame star Jim Mutscheller and Raymond Berry but otherwise are a little thin in that department.

The team also lacks a consistent punter.

Ewbank, in his third year at the reins, is a man who gets everything he can out of his personnel and he may come up with one of the league's better running backs in Taseff or Don Shula, if he can spring one of them from defensive duties. That could help a lot if the Colts are to move up the ladder.

Rosenbloom, General Manager Don Kellett, Ewbank and company will do everything they can to bring Baltimore a winner.

McGuire Named to Coach All-Stars

NEW YORK (UP) — Frank McGuire, whose unbeaten University of North Carolina team won the national basketball championship last winter, today was named head coach of the College All-Stars for their game against the professional New York Knickerbockers Oct. 19 at Madison Square Garden.

Steelers Obtain Four New Faces In Sudden Deals

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers obtained halfback Harland Carl and linebacker Aubrey Rozzell from the Chicago Bears Monday following a trade with the San Francisco Forty-Niners in which Pittsburgh received a quarterback and a guard.

Carl, a second-year pro who formerly starred at Wisconsin, was obtained for a future draft choice. Rozzell, a rookie who played college football for Delta State Teachers, was purchased outright.

Carl and guard Mike Sandusky, obtained from the Forty-Niners, arrived at the Steeler camp Monday at Minneapolis where the team is drilling for Saturday's exhibition contest with the Green Bay Packers.

Quarterback Earl Morrall, also acquired in the Forty-Niner deal, was enroute to camp.

Morrall and Sandusky were obtained for veteran linebacker Marv Matuszak and the Steelers' first draft choices for the next two years.

Sporstmen's Corner—

Selected State Parks Opened for Hunting

HARRISBURG (UP) — Certain areas in selected state parks will be open for hunting during the archery and regular hunting seasons.

The announcement was made by Gov. George M. Leader who said the move was "in the interest of providing more opportunities to our sportsmen for hunting as well as proper management of game resources."

The governor said maps indicating the hunting areas are available upon request to local district foresters, park superintendents, rangers or the Harrisburg office of the Forests and Waters Department.

The state parks are Chapman, Warren County; Big Pocono, Monroe County; Cook Forest, Clarion, Forest and Jefferson; Raccoon Creek, Beaver; Laurel Hill, Somerset; Blue Knob, Bedford; Shawnee, Bedford; Ricketts Glen, Luzerne and Sullivan; Tobyhanna, Monroe and Wayne; Crooked Creek, Armstrong; French Creek, Berks and Chester; Hickory Run, Carbon.

Oven - Hatched—

Game Protector Paul Asper believes one of his Deputies, Roy Adams, qualifies as game bird propagator extraordinary.

Asper says, "One morning this summer Adams was helping his brother to make hay, in Sullivan County, when a hen pheasant was seriously injured by the mower bar. At the accident location the men found a nest of 13 pheasant eggs, most of them 'pipped'. Acting quickly to save the nearly hatched chicks the Deputy placed the eggs in a cloth-lined box, then set the box just inside the oven of the kitchen stove in his home.

"When I arrived there at noon 2 of the chicks had broken out of the shell. By 2:30 that afternoon 12 healthy little birds had hatched. They developed nicely under the care of a nearby Farm-Game Project member who rears Commission-provided ringneck chicks. Another example of game saved for Pennsylvania hunters by a Deputy Game Protector's action."

Variety Spices Day—

Motoring through Monroe County woodlands, one day last month, Game Protector John Doebling saw a broadwing hawk kill and carry off a half-grown rabbit. But this was only the first incident of an interesting trip.

Says Doebling, "Less than one mile farther I stopped to open the gate to State Game Lands No. 38. Hearing a 'woof' I turned around. There stood a black bear, weight approximately 400 pounds, about 30 feet away. Some 200 yards farther I killed a large rattlesnake on the dirt road. Hours later, on leaving the Game Lands I came across a covey of young grouse. The little birds were dusting with their mother at the spot where, fortunately, I had killed the rattlesnake."

HITS ADMINISTRATION — National American Legion Commander W. C. (Dan) Daniel today accused the Eisenhower administration of "being completely out of step" with the thinking of the people in such instances as foreign economic aid and the status of forces agreements. Daniel made a report to 3,113 delegates at the Legion's 39th national convention in Atlantic City.

Bigamist Must Sleep in Barn, Judge Rules

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (UP —Walter Bennett, 32, a convicted bigamist, cannot expect very congenial companionship for the next year as a result of the sentence awarded him for his crime.

He was ordered Monday to sleep in the barn for one year on the farm where he lived with his second wife, Wilma, and their three children. Judge Cyrus M. Palmer imposed the punishment when he was faced with a dilemma.

It would be illegal to send Bennett back to his second spouse. But the jurist was told if he sentenced the bigamist to prison the second wife might die of a heart condition. Palmer ordered Bennett to the barn with the animals as a solution. He stipulated that he would work the farm to support his second family.

Bennett was married to his second wife in 1952 while he was still married to Madelon Murin, a French girl. His first marriage took place in 1946 while he was serving with the armed forces in Germany.

His first wife came to this country with their daughter and started divorce action. When the divorce becomes final, Bennett's second marriage may be approved by the court. His sentence to the barn would also be suspended.

Above Normal Temperatures Being Forecast

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Weather Bureau predicts above normal temperatures for both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts during the next 30 days.

Below normal temperatures were forecast from the lower Mississippi Valley and western Great Lakes region westward to the plateau states.

The bureau said near normal temperatures are in prospect elsewhere "except for above normal along the west coast."

In the East, temperatures are expected to average "above seasonal normals east of the Appalachians with greatest departures along the north and middle Atlantic coast.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal over the eastern third of the nation but be subnormal west of the Continental Divide, the bureau said. About normal amounts were forecast for the central third of the country.

An aneroid barometer is one which contains no liquid. The pointer is moved by the action of atmospheric pressure.

Small Car Buying Will Double

By JIM KLOCKENKEMPER

DETROIT (UP)—Americans this year will buy twice as many foreign cars as they did last year—the little midgets that scoot around the suburbs and run from 30 to 60 miles on a gallon of gas.

Auto makers concede it is one of the most significant trends in the industry, but there is considerable disagreement whether American manufacturers should enter the field themselves.

Sales of small European cars in 1957 will total something like 180,000. It is interesting to note that is about the same figure the new Edsel will be shooting at for its first year.

Hundreds of dealers who have American car franchises now are handling foreign car lines.

Foreign Names Now Familiar

Names that were unknown a few years ago are becoming familiar —Volkswagen, Renault, Anglia, MG, Metropolitan, Austin, Healy, Jaguar, Simca, Hillman Minx, Mercedes-Benz, Triumph, Morris Minor, Porsche, Volvo, Opel, Vauxhall, Citroen.

The big questions for auto executives are "why" and "what": Why are people buying them and what should American firms do about it.

One dealer who has talked about the "why" is Preston M. Marble, head of Sports Car, Inc., in Denver. Marble points out that the foreign cars must be broken down distinctly into the precision built (and not inexpensive) sports car and the economy car.

Imports Are Cheaper

Marble can sell an economy foreign car in Denver for $1,800. That is $400-500 under the very cheapest American model. The sports car buyer, on the other hand, is seeking styling and exclusiveness, and it is this "fadist" approach which perturbs American companies.

But economy is not a fad. It is what has led General Motors to start importing the Opel and Vauxhall from Germany and England. Ford brought in the Anglia from England and is reported bringing in the Taunus next year from Germany.

Chrysler President L. L. Colbert has said his company also is studying a marketing tie-up with a European manufacturer.

Studebaker - Packard stripped down its Champion, used an economy six-cylinder engine and got the Scotsman, its best seller in several years.

George Romney, president of American Motors, decided in 1953 that the small car trend was underway and pointed his newly merged firm in that direction. AMC made Ramblers, now its biggest seller, and imports the small Metropolitan from England.

P&LE Warehouse Damage $170,000

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad officials said today damage from a Sunday fire at the firm's McKees Rocks warehouse would exceed $170,000.

A P&LE spokesman said the fire apparently started in a warehouse section of the building and spread throughout the 50-year-old structure.

Firemen from McKees Rocks and two neighboring communities brought the blaze under control within two hours.

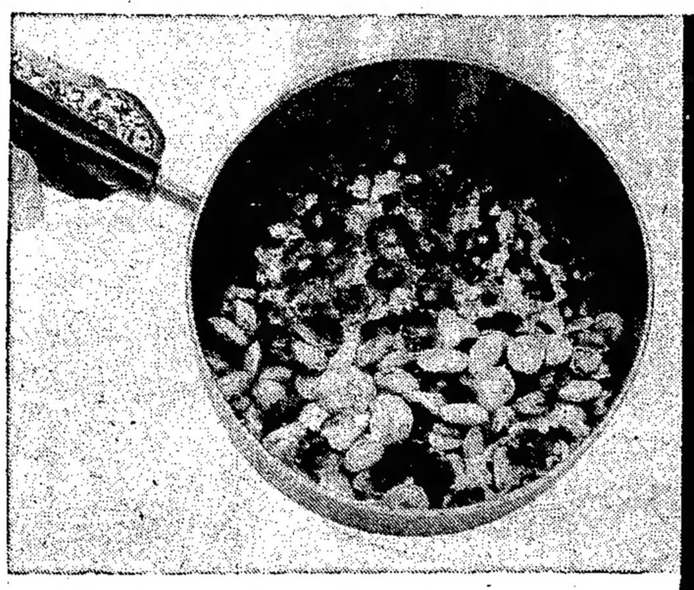
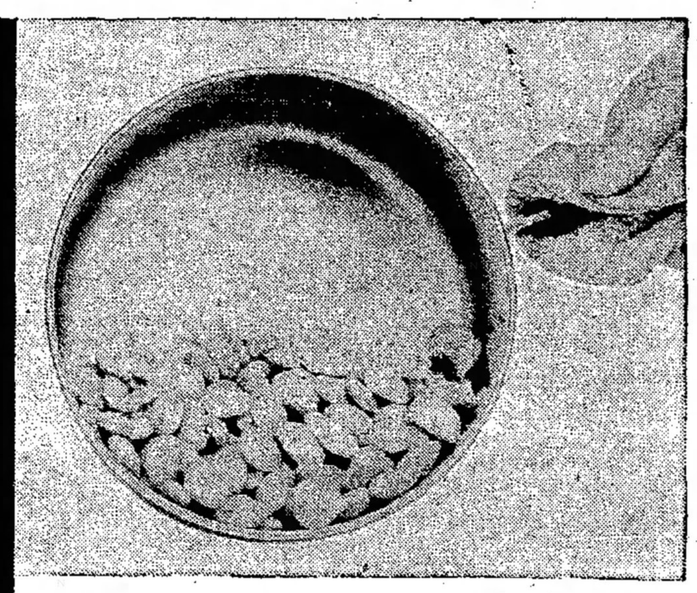
30-MINUTE TEST PROVES:
NEW GAS BURNER WITH A BRAIN
WON'T SCORCH FOOD



30 minutes on ordinary burner



30 minutes on the Gas Burner-with-a-Brain

Here's proof that foods WON'T BURN on a new Gas Burner-with-a-Brain. Even if you get busy and forget that you have vegetables cooking for 30 minutes or more—the automatic heat control keeps them from reaching scorching temperature.

What happens is this: you dial the temperature it takes to cook your vegetable. Then the automatic heat control unit takes over! It turns the flame up until the exact cooking temperature is reached. Then it turns the flame down, just as you would do, to keep the heat exactly right for the rest of the cooking period.

Just think! Vegetables won't overcook. Cream sauces won't curdle or separate. Bacon can't burn. French fries have golden, crisp crust instead of being soggy and greasy. All because the Burner-with-a-Brain has the exact temperature control you get only with Gas.

Remember . . . flame cooking is the finest cooking.

Woman's Club Holds 10th Anniversary Party, Dinner

A three-tiered anniversary cake in yellow and white centered the officers table for the tureen dinner that marked the Fayette City Woman's Club's tenth anniversary.

The tables were arranged with centerpieces of yellow and white Fall flowers placed in tin bucket containers and the tin favors also carried out the tradition of ten years.

The officers for the next two years are president: Mrs. George Troth, 2nd vice-president Mrs. Thomas Conway; treasurer Mrs. Richard Auther, recording secretary Mrs. Albert Walton and corresponding secretary Permealia Baldwin.

In attendance were the clubs past presidents: Mrs. Wayne Hawker, Mrs. Howard McCrory, Mrs. Joseph Williams, and Mrs. Edwin Hindmarsh, all of whom were seated at the officers table. Each past president was recognized by Mrs. Troth in her introductory remarks. Mrs. Aland C. Dent, the first president of the club, was unable to attend.

Mrs. D. Earl Daniel gave the invocation. Dinner was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Louis Alberta, Mrs. Joseph Williams, Mrs. Joseph Ciavarra, Mrs. Mildred Janeri, and Mrs. Joseph Butler.

The program chairman, Mrs. Vernon Smith, presented Mrs. Elizabeth Muir of Fisher Heights who entertained with musical readings of a hemorous nature, accompanying herself at the piano. She also lead the group singing of four popular songs.

Calls for Reports

Mrs. Troth then called for reports of the standing committees. Mrs. Wayne Hawker, reporting for the by-laws committee, read an amendment to the by-laws in a matter of a raise in the club dues. Action will be taken on the amendment after the third reading at the November meeting.

The budget for the year was presented by the finance chairman Mrs. Richard Auther. A motion to contribute $250 annually to the Fayette City Building Association, payment to be made each May, was made and inserted in the budget before it was accepted by the club.

Mrs. Jack Stockton, chairman of press book and publicity, urged that all chairmen notify her before and after each of their committee meetings. She stated that her committee had been assigned to their duties in contacting the valley newspapers as well as collecting all items published therein.

Mrs. Thomas Conway, chairman of membership, reminded the club members that new members would be inducted at the October 21 meeting and asked that any proposed memberships be presented to her by October 15.

A new idea is being worked out by the education committee according to the chairman, Mrs. Daniel. The committee plans to hold either a spelling bee or essay contest in the local school. The complete plans have not been made but are expected to be announced at an early date.

Plan Card Party

Mrs. Willard Auther, a chairman of way's and mean's, announced that her group would sponsor a card party in the club rooms on Tuesday evening, October 15, and asked that her committee meet with her at the close of the business meeting.

Ground Hog Day Is Crucial Date

By UNITED PRESS

Milk producers in Pennsylvania took a long look at the calendar today and drew a big red circle around Ground Hog Day next February.

It wasn't done to remind them of the weather forecasts credited to the furry little animal.

Instead, it was done to remind them that it is a day to worry over — a date which can be crucial in the matter of feed for livestock.

Actually, Ground Hog Day was selected as a sort of whistling-in-the-dark past-the-graveyard date by dairymen from Southeastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland meeting in an emergency session in Philadelphia.

Vital Date

It was selected as a reminder that because of the severe drought conditions prevailing throughout the Philadelphia milkshed this summer, there may be no feed available for livestock.

The emergency meeting was called last week by Chief Examiner G. Osmond Hyde of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission at the request of the Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative. The meeting was important enough to last two days.

Witnesses described how there was no pasture to speak of since July as a result of the drought, and predicted there will be no pasture until next spring. Hay fields normally cut three to four times a year were cut only once with what could be considered a normal yield, and the second cutting—in most cases the final cutting— was only a one-half yield.

Corn crops ranged only 60 per cent of normal in most cases. Many cases showed a total loss. Too, there was the unpleasant thought that any rain from this point on would be too late to help this season's crops.

Feed Costs

The drought brought on a situation whereby producers were compelled to begin use of their winter feed as early as July. They now are giving cattle what normally would be the December feed quota. Accordingly at this rate of feed, there will be little or none left by February. That's why Ground Hog Day was circled.

Testimony was presented to show that hay which normally costs $15 to $25 a ton — depending on quality — already is costing from $25 to $65 a ton. In some instances, none is available, even at this early date.

Producers now face the problem of whether to feed a cow less than capacity which admittedly would reduce herd efficiency and result in a waste of feed — or go along at capacity rate to get the best out of the cattle "and see what happens in February."

The Pennsylvania drought situation was described as general. J. Lin Huber of St. Thomas told of burnt out alfalfa fields and lessened corn crops in Franklin, Fulton, and Bedford counties. Drought conditions in Mifflin, Juniata and Perry Counties were described by James M. Rogers of McVeytown. G. W. Davis of Oxford told of severe southeast county conditions.

There were predictions that there would be drastic reduction in milk supplies before spring unless farmers receive adequate help. That's why the red circle around Ground Hog Day is scarey.

Steel Rise Is Predicted by Nation's Experts

CLEVELAND (UP)—Steel magazine predicted today that by the end of the year the nation's steelmaking capacity will have risen 4.6 per cent over capacity at the beginning of 1957.

According to the magazine, the addition of facilities to make 7.6 million net ingot tons will push the national annual capacity up to 141 million tons by Jan. 1, 1958. The capacity last Jan. 1 was 133.5 million.

The magazine said 1958 additions will add another 5.3 million net tons.

Listing 23 companies which plan increases in capacity during the rest of this year and in 1958, the publication said reasons for the expansion were growing population, and progress in electronics, automation, aviation and power plants.

Servants Never Had It So Good Before

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UP) — The supply of domestic servants in America has come a long way in the past five years. But it still can't catch up with the demand.

Census Bureau figures estimate that some two-and-a-half million persons, mostly women, now help keep house for busy Americans. This is an increase of about 800,000 maids, cooks, nursemaids, butlers, chambermaids, laundresses and housekeepers since 1952.

Still, the demand far outnumbers the supply and this circumstance is making the domestic's job easier and more comfortable.

It is no longer enough merely to advertise in a newspaper for household help. You've got to present a generous, benevolent proposition.

A help wanted ad in an Omaha, Neb., newspaper states: "Cook. Good hours, no Sundays, holidays. Not heavy work. Top wages, beautiful room with private bath, new air-conditioned home."

Work Sounds Easy

This private room-bath-television air conditioner pattern is repeated in ads appearing in newspapers across the nation. Aside from listing the creature comforts, employers also are making the work sound easy.

Such phrases as, "very light housework," "no ironing," "Other help for heavy cleaning," "plain cooking," 'good treatment" and, of course, "call collect" are almost routine in current ads for domestic help.

Occasionally, an employer will seek to attract a servant by offering the use of a car on the day off.

As for salaries, a cook now can draw $250 to $300 a month. A butler can earn $400 a month, plus room and board. A married couple that sleeps in can earn up to $500.

The government has levied a four-and-a-half per cent social security deduction for each domestic earning more than $50 a quarter.

Most employers pay the full deduction rather than risk irritating the servant by asking her to chip in with half.

Employment agency officials and government sources agree that one major cause of the increased demand for household help is the trend to suburban living. A new home generally calls for a part-time cleaning woman, it seems. And there's the increasing number of working wives. They go to work in the morning and hire someone else to do the housework.

Your Health—

Hearing Tests Are Outlined

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

You mothers are in a better position than anyone else to detect early signs of loss of hearing in your children. You are with them more than Dad or any other member of the family and you are more familiar with their reactions.

If your tot responds less readily to speech or to simple sounds than your other children did at the same age, then be alert for other signals indicating hearing difficulties.

You don't have to wait until the youngster is old enough to talk to test his hearing.

Here are a few ways it can be done at different ages.

You can test the hearing of an infant between the ages of 10 days and three months with a sound instrument such as a drum, a tom-tom, cowbell or pitch pipe. This test should be made when the baby is awake or in a light sleep. Be sure not to do it when he is crying.

Usually a child who is able to hear these noises will blink his eyes, cry or move suddenly. Also, he will probably cease his activities momentarily as he stops to listen.

Routine testing of the Moro Reflex can be used on babies from three to four months of age.

Loud Noise

If the child's hearing is good, a sudden loud noise probably will cause him to throw out both arms and bring them back toward each other jerkily, with fingers first fanned out and then clenched.

Youngsters between four and six months respond better in testing situations to the human voice, especially one which is quiet and familiar. If a child's hearing is normal, simply speaking to him in a normal voice will cause him to turn his head.

Between the ages of six months and one year, a child with normal hearing will recognize sounds which mean something to him. His own gabbing will become more varied and significant.

From one year to the age of two, a youngster with good hearing ability will begin to understand more words and to speak a few of them.

After the age of two, you can test a child's hearing by speaking behind his back or by making other sounds out of his sight.

For these tests it's a good idea to pick a wide range of sounds Use instruments with various pitches, such as a drum or tom-tom for the low tones and a whistle for the high ones.

A piano or violin might give you a fair idea of the youngster's hearing range. A radio also might provide an indication of hearing acuity.

Question and Answer

T. I.: Is there any treatment for trachoma?

Answer: Trachoma, virus disease of the eye, is a difficult disease to treat. However, it has been found that cortisone is very helpful.

In Hollywood—

Carroll Baker Forces Studio to Yell 'Uncle'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Usually it takes a full-fledged star to push a studio around, but Carroll Baker has powerful Warner Brothers yelling "uncle" in a suspension beef over her refusal to accept a role.

Such temperamental beauties as Rita Hayworth and Betty Grable balked time after time, but finally returned to the fold on studio terms.

Not Carroll.

Though she's had supporting roles in only two films, "Baby Doll" and "Giant," the blue-eyed newcomer charmed the bigwigs into seeing things her way.

Back On Good Terms

Last March, Warners moguls announced that Carroll would play the title role in "The Diana Barrymore Story." When Carroll stamped her foot and said, "No," they quickly put her on suspension.

A few years ago such outrageous behavior from a slip of a girl would have meant banishment and the ruin of a promising career. A big star might get away with it, but not a supporting player.

How, then, did Carroll pull it off?

"I want to be careful what I say," she said prudently. "We're back on very good terms now, and I want to keep it that way.

"I didn't care for the script at all. It was pure sensationalism and romanticized a way of life that I didn't think was good. There was no growth in it. The ending wasn't realistic either.

"Casting-wise it was wrong for me, too. I couldn't be convincing as a 35 year-old alcoholic. Maybe I could be a 20-year-old drunk, but that's not what the part called for."

Co-Stars with Peck

Actually, Carroll is a mature 23.

"I wasn't afraid of losing a career in pictures when I refused the part," the victor smiled. "I'm interested in becoming an actress, not a glamour girl. If I'd been banned from movies I'd have concentrated on the stage."

Carroll zoomed from nowhere to dizzying heights last year following her portrayal of the thumb-sucking Baby Doll. Her contract with Warners calls for one picture a year at the studio and one outside film.

Currently, she is starring with Gregory Peck and Jean Simmons in "The Big Country" — an "outsidie." Before she could make the picture Warners had to sanction the deal.

World of Television—

Jill Corey Likes Her New Role

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) —Jill Corey, one of the new adornments of "Your Hit Parade," is proof that perserverance pays off. She applied for the job on the NBC-TV show two years ago.

"I was up for the show back in 1955 when Dorothy Collins was going to have her baby," recalled Miss Corey. "They wanted a temporary replacement for Dorothy and for a while, I thought I might get it.

"Polly Bergen got the job instead, but they didn't forget me. When Gisele MacKenzie turned in her resignation early this year, they called me up again. I guess it's just about the biggest thing that ever happened to me. It's a real prestige show."

Miss Corey, a dark haired chick who hails from Avonmore, Pa., where she was born Norma Jean Speranza, is also happy about the brand of music she'll be called on to sing this season.

Ballads Make Come Back

"I think the trend is pretty much away from rock 'n' roll and that the pretty ballad is coming back," she said. "In the past two years, I've cut only one ballad ('Let It Be Me')—all the rest have been rhythm or novelty tunes. I'll be glad to get back to some ballads.

"I guess the reason most singers don't like rock 'n' roll too well is that you can't get a really pretty sound with a rock 'n' roll song. You just can't sustain a note.

"Did you ever notice the way a rock 'n' roll song is sung? The singer always tries to keep a smile on his face. I don't know why, but it's certainly one of the most trying things about rock 'n' roll—you have to keep that smile.

Has TV Experience

Miss Corey is, at 22, a TV veteran having slaved in the shops of Dave Garroway, Robert Q. Lewis and Johnny Carson. But she confesses that TV singing can bt a little taxing at times.

"You can't get settled in TV when you're singing," she observed. "You have to be on your toes and you have to sing out—that mike boom is always a couple of feet away from you. Well, that means that it's pretty difficult to get a mellow sound. If you try for a mellow sound, the director always starts shouting — 'sing a little louder.'"

In an effort to polish her vocal technique, Miss Corey plans to buckle down to singing lessons again. Her schedule also calls for two dramatic lessons a week and four dancing lessons a week, the latter with June Taylor, Jackie Gleason's former choreographer.

Aims For Movies

"The thing about 'Hit Parade' is that I'll get all sorts of experience," said Miss Corey. "I'll be dancing, singing, clowning. It'll make me an all round performer.

"It'll help me a lot in my eventual goal—to get in the movies. I know it sounds like a childish dream, but they're my goal.

"The thing about TV is that it's so uncertain — even when you have your own show, there's no certainty that you can last as a performer. But if you're successful in the movies, well, you just go on and on."

TV NOTES

New York—(UP) — NBC will use "The Steve Allen Show" Sept. 22, to give a preview of the networks 1957-58 season. Since so many of the personalities involved are in Hollywood, the program will originate there for that one date.

"Tales of the Texas Rangers" moves over to ABC this fall and will be seen, starting Sept. 21, at 5 to 5:30 p. m. Saturdays.

Robert Ryan will be guest star on the first of the new series of "Mr. Adams and Eve" shows which begin on CBS at 9 p. m. Sept. 20.

ABC has "The Lone Ranger" in a new spot this season. The veteran program will be seen from 5 30 to 6 p. m. Saturdays beginning Sept. 21.

Two Hearts For Youngster

NW YORK (UP) — Fifteen-year-old Paula Michelle Webber today has two good hearts that she didn't have three weeks ago.

One is a cake baked in the shape of a valentine. The other heart is Paula's own.

Three weeks ago, in a rare and delicate operation, doctors halted the motion of Paula's heart and took 20 stitches in it to close a hole the size of a silver dollar.

Monday, the pretty blue - eyed girl walked under her own power out of Brooklyn's Jewish Hospital and returned to her home in Massapequa, N.Y.

Under her arm Paula carried the heart-shaped cake, the farewell gift of a team of 15 surgeons, physicians and nurses who worked feverishly to mend the tear in her heart.

Plan Pet Parade

Mrs. Robert Kramer, chairman of the ways and means committee of Fells Woman's Club announced today that a pet parade will be held during the annual bazaar beginning at noon on Oct. 22 at Lebanon School.

Asta First Dog to Get Insurance

NEW YORK (UP) — Asta, the wire-haired terrier who is a featured player on television's "Thin Man," is the first dog to get a life policy in the new Animal Insurance Co. of America.

And like every pedigreed dog the company will insure, Asta submitted to having a print taken of his nose before he got his policy Monday.

President Milton Weiss of the company says a dog's noseprint is as infallible as a human's fingerprints. Weiss says his company has so many applications already that he is thinking of expanding from dogs to pedigreed cats, and eventually to racehorses, circus and zoo animals and even farm animals.

"There is no question," he said, "but that the whole animal insurance field is capable of big development. It has been barely touched."

The insurance statistical firm, Alfred M. Best, Inc., backed up Weiss. Best told the United Press that livestock insurance written in the United States in 1956 totalled only $1,560,000—A tiny sum in relation to the huge value of the nation's farm and sporting animals and pets.

Zoos and circuses suffen from lack of insurance on their costly collections. Comptroller Herbert Schiemann of New York's Bronx Zoo said rates asked to insure wild animals are so high the Bronx Zoo only insures them when they are in transit—no matter how valuable they are.

We didn't have a nickel's worth of insurance on Penelope, the rare Australian platypus that escaped recently," said Schiemann sadly. "If some company would work out an insurance plan for animals at reasonable cost it would be a big help to us."

Students Return To Their Classes

WATERTOWN, Mass. (UP) — Eighty Watertown High School students who picketed the school Monday morning carrying signs which read "Unfair—On Strike," returned to classes in the afternoon.

The short-lived "walkout" ended after Headmaster John J. Kelley talked to the pupils in the school auditorium.

The students, including a number of girls, said they were protesting "over strict" enforcement of school regulations by Kelley.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.
